Slow Refund

Q. Last June I ordered some seat covers from a mail order house, and was dissatisfied with them. I sent them back hoping for a refund, but so far I haven't heard anything from them. Can you help me get some action? Mrs. B.E.H., Long Beach.

A. Refunds from the Here's How company are slow, says a spokesman, since the company has most of its time taken up filling orders. However, your refund will be sent if you write a letter to the refund department, the spokesman says. It will receive attention there. The address is 7 Delaware Drive, Lake Success, N.Y.

Kitnaped?

Q. My white kitten has been stolen. If I could be certain that the thief's only motive was wanting a white kitten, I'd feel better about it, but I am afraid the kitten has been "petnaped" and is being used for laboratory experiments. D.W., Manhattan Beach.

A. George Crozier, executive vice president of the Los Angeles Humane Society, said it is unlikely that your kitten is being used in laboratory experiments. Among other reasons, "very few cats in comparison with dogs are used in laboratory experiment work. In addition, the laboratories can purchase unclaimed strays through most county and city pounds and get a bill of sale," he explained. He added that the 1966 dognaping law enacted by Congress puts very stringent controls on animal dealers. Fowler West, an aide to Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., one of the dognaping law's authors, said the law curbs the thefts of dogs and cats for sale to research laboratories and insures humane treatment of animals used in research. "The U.S. Department of Agriculture, Research Service, licenses animal dealers who sell animals in other states or sell animals to research laboratories which receive federal grants. Dealers and research laboratories now have to keep records of animals and to identify them so that lost or stolen pets might be recorded," he added. A copy of the law will be sent to you. ACTION LINE talked with Marvin Thronson, director of animal control for the Los Angeles County Pound in Downey. He explained that stray animals, picked up in unincorporated areas of the county, which are unclaimed or which cannot be placed in new homes are sometimes sold to approved, nonprofit institutions for medical research. Most dealers in animals for medical research, however, are now raising their own animals on ranches, one informed source said.

Head Hunter

Q. I have had multiple sclerosis for four years. In order to be able to support my family, I am taking data processing courses at Cerritos Junior College. I used a Webcor tape recorder in my studies, but now I need a new playback head. I have looked all over Los Angeles County for one, but haven't been able to find one because the tape recorder is 11 years old. Its model number is EP-2103-1. Can you help? T.T., Norwalk.

A. Chapman Television, Radio and Hi Fi Service in Los Angeles is an authorized service and parts dealer for Webcor. A company representative said they have a playback head which will fit your tape recorder. It sells for $14.50 and it can be identified by the number 65P-150SD. For further information, call 751-1151.

Vets' Citizenship

Q. I'm pretty sure that Congress passed a bill sometime ago which would speed up the naturalization procedure for aliens serving with honor in the U.S. armed forces in Vietnam. When will this bill go into effect? Where can I find out more about it? Mrs. I.D., Long Beach.

A. The bill — HB 15147 — has been stalled in a House-Senate conference committee since Aug. 1 and there is no indication when it will be released to come onto the floor, says a spokesman for Rep. John Rooney, D-N.Y., originator of the bill. The bill was passed by the House, passed and amended by the Senate, and sent back to the House for final agreement on the amendments. When the House did not concur with the changes, the bill was sent into conference committee. The main block to agreement, the spokesman says, is a difference in opinion over the date of retroaction of the bill. The House version would make the bill retroactive to February 1961, whereas the Senate amended it to 1963. The bill would change section 329 of the Immigration and Naturalization Act to decrease the time of residence needed for citizenship in the case of aliens serving in Vietnam with U.S. forces, and would make several other concessions. Copies of the Senate and House reports on the bill, as well as a statement by Congressman Rooney, will be sent to you. Others may write Rep. Rooney in care of the Congressional Office Building, Washington, D.C.

Where Am I?

Q. Is 3820 Cherry Ave. in Lakewood or Long Beach? The post office says Long Beach, and the police station says Lakewood. I.W.G., Long Beach.

A. The Southern California Permanente Medical Group, at 3820 Cherry Ave., is in the city of Lakewood but is serviced by the Long Beach post office. C. E. Davis, superintendent of delivery and collection for the Long Beach Main Post Office, explained that Cherry Avenue is the dividing line between the two cities in that section, with properties on the east side of the street being in Lakewood and on the west, Long Beach. Owners of property on such borderline streets can receive postal service from either city. In this case, most of the business in the 3800 block of Cherry requested Long Beach postal service, Davis said.

Muskie vs. Card Burners

Draft Papers as He Urges Reforms
By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

Three young men burned their draft cards Friday under the stern gaze of Democratic vice presidential nominee Sen. Edmund Muskie at USC's Bovard Auditorium.

An apparent majority of the 1,750 students in attendance applauded Muskie's response that persons opting to break the law must expect to pay the penalties.

"I suppose the penalty which goes with that act," said Muskie, "gives this act the drama which he (the draft card burner) is seeking."

The incident followed Muskie's address in which he scored the nation's draft laws as "unfair and unjust" and commended dissent as "a natural and necessary part of the democratic process if it is channeled toward the development of democratic decisions."

Daniel Brandt, 20-year-old sociology major from North Hollywood, stood at a floor microphone some 25 feet from the candidate holding his draft card and said:

"I'm too young to vote. I'm 20. But I'm voting in a symbolic sense for peace, love and non-violence. Why do I belong in jail?"

Muskie replied, "I thought I just answered that." The candidate had explained that anarchy is the product when every citizen acts as his own Congress making his own laws.

The other card burners were Daniel Malone, 22, of Inglewood, an architecture major, and Bruce Peddy, 22, a nonstudent. Brandt and Peddy wore their blond hair almost to their shoulders.

The three identified themselves as members of the Students for a Democratic Society (SDS), a volatile movement occupied with activism against

CAR HITS 3 ON WAY TO DANCE; 1 DIES

A hit-run car slammed into a group of young people walking to a rock 'n' roll dance at a Carson area teen-age night club Friday night, killing an 18-year-old college student and injuring two of his companions.

William Robert Cooper, an orphan who resided at the Masonic Home in Covina and attended Azusa Pacific College, was dead on arrival at Harbor General Hospital.

Seriously injured was Terry Edwards, 18, also a student at the college. Joe Melby, 25, of Gardena, was in fair condition.

Ban Abortion, Baby Maimed

NEW YORK (UPI) — A court Friday night awarded $110,000 to a couple whose child was born crippled and retarded after a hospital refused to permit a medically authorized abortion. It was the first such decision in the country.

The award, in Brooklyn Superior Court, went to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Stewart. The all-male jury, which included five Catholics deliberated 11 hours. Mrs. Stewart had contracted German measles during her pregnancy.

The Stewarts had sued Long Island College Hospital on behalf of their child Rosalyn, who has been totally deaf, partially blind, spastic and mentally retarded since her birth Jan. 4, 1965.

The Stewarts testified that Mrs. Stewart, 24, con-

PACT OK AT NORTH AMERICAN

Negotiators for North American Rockwell Corp. and the United Auto and Aerospace Workers said Friday they have reached tentative agreement on a new three-year contract.

The UAW called a rally for noon Sunday in Long Beach Municipal Auditorium to present the contract to its 35,000 Southland members. No details of the contract were revealed Friday.

Last Sunday the UAW, in a secret ballot at Long Beach Veterans Stadium, voted to give its negotiators authority to take the union out on strike if an acceptable contract was not submitted before Oct. 10.

The UAW has set a number of goals on which it says it will not yield. Included are a sweeping supplemental unemployment benefits plan (to aid those affected by layoffs), a dental program, increased health and insurance benefits, and "equity" in wages.

Hecklers 'Baptize' GOP Pair

HARTFORD, Conn. (UPI) — Richard M. Nixon on Friday night encountered for the first time in his campaign the heckling students and empty seats which have been the twin bugaboos of Hubert Humphrey's electioneering.

Antiwar hecklers also shouted and chanted Friday at Republican vice presidential candidate Spiro T. Agnew. Screams of "Warmonger" and chants of "Humphrey, Humphrey" came from a small band of protesters as Agnew spoke at an outdoor rally in downtown Spokane.

MOVING INTO New England after a highly successful four-day swing through the South, Nixon had the unaccustomed experience of being hooted and jeered by hundreds of students from Yale, Trinity, Smith, Mount Holyoke and other Ivy League schools as he entered the Hartford Armory for a rally.

Inside the armory, which seats 5,400 persons, hundreds of seats were empty. Local Republican officials indicated to reporters that they had left the seats empty rather than grant admission to the heckling students who sought to enter.

The crowd inside the armory seemed to be well-screened for Republican ardor. Once in the hall, Nixon got the big ovation he is used to receiving from rally audiences.

BUT WHEN he stood up to begin his speech, he was briefly interrupted by a small group of hecklers in the balcony chanting "Stop the war" — the same chant which antiwar

Sirhan's Attorney Demands to See 'FBI Book on Case'

By MARY NEISWENDER
Staff Writer

Charges that the FBI has been—and still is—investigating the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, despite denials that the federal agency is involved, were made Friday by the accused assassin's attorney, Russell E. Parsons.

The attorney mentioned an "inch-thick" FBI book on the case.

He made the charges at a press conference following the latest courtroom appearance of Sirhan Bashara Sirhan, the 24-year-old would-be jockey accused of the murder.

In the brief five-minute hearing, Parsons asked for a continuance of the case until after the first of the year.

SIRHAN sat smiling. He waved to his mother and brother, who sat in the spectator section of the mini-fortress courtroom on the 13th floor of the Hall of Justice, where he has made all his public appearances since the shooting of the presidential aspirant June 5.

Sirhan's cheerful and animated behavior was in direct contrast to his other five courtroom appearances, during which he was solemn.

The oral motion for continuance was set for hearing Oct. 14 by Superior Court Judge Richard Schauer, who also formally announced assignment of Judge Herbert V. Walker to hear the case.

ALSO to be argued at that time will be two other motions before the court — one for suppression of evidence the defense contends was illegally obtained, and a motion for discovery — a defense request for the names and statements of prosecution witnesses.

In asking for the continuance, the slight, balding attorney also "suggested" that the jury be sequestered — locked up for the duration of the trial.

"It has been suggested in similar cases by the Supreme Court of the United States that it might have been far better if the jury was sequestered. I think in this case . . . a case of this magnitude . . . that the jury should be sequestered . . . in the interest of justice."

PARSONS contended that with "Christmas shopping, visiting with people over the holidays and New Year's," it would work an extreme hardship on jurors to start the trial before January.

The defense attorney, who still refuses to divulge the name of his mysterious co-counsel, for the first time in court faced the three-man brain trust from the district attorney's office who will conduct the prosecution — Lynn (Buck) Compton, David Filtz and John Howard.

Although Compton, as chief deputy district attorney, heads the three-man

Is Willing to Rescind His Order

By GEORGE LAINE
Staff Writer

Los Angeles Fire Chief Raymond C. Hill says he will rescind orders to arm key firemen with riot guns.

Hill, who dodged reporters through most of Friday morning and early afternoon, called a press conference late in the afternoon and said he was willing to abide by any City Council or mayoral order forbidding the use of riot guns by firemen.

"If they say forget it," Hill declared, "I'll forget it."

Tuesday, at a Louisville, Ky., fire chief convention, Hill revealed that the department had purchased 60 automatic shotguns so that firemen could "shoot their way out" of potential trouble spots. The statement produced three days of stormy debate in Los Angeles with councilmen, organizations and Mayor Sam Yorty attacking the plan.

ANOTHER organization joined the critics Friday when the 11,000-member Federated Fire Fighters (AFL-CIO) said firemen "are trained in fire suppression, not in riot control."

A spokesman said crowd control was a police function and arming of firemen would send departmental "community relations programs . . . out the door, especially in the black community."

Hill said it would be "an understatement to say I'm surprised at the furor" over the purchase of the 60 shotguns.

Worse, the fire chief added, he was misquoted in the stories out of the Louisville meeting. Hill said it was incorrect to say he had left Los Angeles "to make a statement" — a point made by both Councilman Billy Mills and Mayor Yorty. Hill denied such action.

INSTEAD, he said, he made his remark in summarizing a panel on urban fire procedures.

"I made no formal announcement," the chief said.

Hill said he was stunned when he learned via a telephone call to his office that Los Angeles groups were "all stirred up over arming the firemen." That phrase, Hill said, would have meant

Saigon Terror Spree

Combined News Services

SAIGON, Saturday — Viet Cong guerrillas unleashed an eight-hour spree of terror and sabotage around Saigon early today, rocketing a key bridge, assassinating a hamlet chief and blowing up a South Vietnamese government building. Far to the north, a U.S. Marine patrol fought its way out of a Communist ambush and killed 32 Red soldiers while suffering one Leatherneck wounded. The terrorists blew up a

Two-story government administration building in the Cholon section of Saigon with about 44 pounds of dynamite. Other Viet Cong gunners fired three 22 mm rockets at the Ben Luc bridge, scoring one direct hit and leaving a gaping hole in the 750-yard-long span which is the main link between Saigon and the Mekong Delta.

JUNTA VOIDS PACT

LIMA, Peru — The military junta that overthrew President Fernando Belaunde Terry nullified Friday night a disputed contract with a U.S. oil firm (International Petroleum Corp.) that the junta generals used as a pretext for the president's ouster Thursday. Meanwhile, the U.S. "suspended" diplomatic relations with the military regime.

Blast Rips Firm Complex

AARHUS, Denmark — An explosion and fire ripped through a grain company complex Friday, lifting part of one silo off the ground "like a rocket at blastoff" and hurling workers through windows with their clothes on fire. The explosion and fire caused an estimated $4.5 million and injured 12 persons.

Czechs Sign Russ Treaty

MOSCOW — Two days of critical Soviet-Czechoslovak talks ended here Friday with agreement by the Prague chiefs to sign a treaty for the "temporary stationing" of Warsaw Pact troops in their country. They also agreed to put Czechoslovakia's once-free press "to the service of socialism." But a joint communique only reiterated earlier pledges about an eventual withdrawal by stages of the Soviet-led forces that invaded Czechoslovakia Aug. 20. It did not say how many would go or when. Meanwhile at the U.N., Czechoslovakia, declaring that it "is and will remain" a Communist nation, asked the General Assembly not to debate its invasion and occupation by Soviet-led Warsaw Pact forces.

NATO to Bolster Forces

WASHINGTON — NATO nations have agreed to bolster Allied military strength in Western Europe in the face of Russia's invasion of Czechoslovakia. NATO foreign ministers have moved up a December meeting by one month to implement measures designed to strengthen the Western defense shield.

New Violence Threatened

MEXICO CITY — Army marksmen killed a sniper with a bullet in the head Friday after he opened up on passersby from a social security building, breaking Mexico City's uneasy calm. The sudden gunman shot one man to death and wounded another. At the same time, a renewal of general violence was threatened by a self-style "liberation army." The threat of new disorders was contained in a printed statement distributed Friday by the underground "liberation" group which said it would wage guerrilla war against "the criminal government of President Gustavo Diaz Ordaz."

NATIONAL

Protest Organizer Met Cong Agents

WASHINGTON — An organizer of the stormy antiwar protests at the Democratic National Convention testified Friday he went behind the Iron Curtain to meet with Viet Cong agents two months before the Chicago disorders. Robert Greenblatt, told a House subcommittee on Un-American activities he met with North Vietnamese negotiators in Paris, talked with Viet Cong officials in Prague, and spoke at a meeting in Cyprus attended by Communists. Greenblatt and Yippie leader Jerry Rubin were among 13 protesters and attorneys who staged a walkout during Friday's hearings to protest the ouster of an attorney.

Police Suspended Over Riot

CHICAGO — The International Inspections Division of the Chicago Police Department Friday recommended the suspension of two sergeants and eight patrolmen in connection with a fracas in Lincoln Park Aug. 25 involving Yippies, hippies and antiwar protesters. The suspensions were the first disciplinary action recommended in an investigation into police action during the Democratic National Convention.

Senate Votes LSD Bill

WASHINGTON — The Senate passed by voice vote Friday a bill, sought by the Johnson administration, to make it illegal to possess for personal use LSD and stimulant and depressant drugs.

B-52 Crashes; 4 Die

MINOT, N.D. — An Air Force B-52 bomber returning to Minot Air Force base after a training mission crashed and burned in a field early Friday, killing four of the six crewmen. No nuclear weapons were aboard.

LBJ Mum on Court Nomination

WASHINGTON — Doubt grew among senators Friday that President Johnson plans to submit another nomination for chief justice of the United States. Johnson formally notified the Senate of his withdrawal of the nomination of Associate Justice Abe Fortas but did not propose another nominee to succeed Earl Warren, who notified the President last June of his intention to retire "at your pleasure."

Teachers Vote Another Strike

NEW YORK — The executive board of the teachers union voted Friday night in favor of another school strike next week unless satisfactory agreements are reached with the city over the tense situation in a Brooklyn district.

Slashed Foreign Aid Voted

WASHINGTON — The Senate voted Friday to spend $1.9 billion this year on foreign aid, the lowest amount since the program began 22 years ago and $1 billion below President Johnson's request. Even further cuts are likely since the Senate figure, approved 44-13, was $350 million more than that voted earlier by the House.

U.S. Readies Apollo Course

CAPE KENNEDY — The first of eight huge, new flying tracking stations took off on a flight halfway around the world Friday to get into position for the 11-day orbital voyage of Apollo 7 and its three astronauts. Apollo 7, scheduled for launch next Friday, will be America's first manned space flight in nearly two years.

Combined News Services

Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said Friday in Kansas City he would consider accepting one of two cabinet posts in a Nixon administration. The New York governor, who lost the Republican nomination to Richard M. Nixon, said he might become secretary of defense or secretary of state but whether he would serve would depend on the "structure" of the administration. Rockefeller emphasized that he was not seeking an offer from Nixon. It was his first public statement on his political future since the Republican convention.

BACK ON JOB

Sandra Wagner ended her seven-day strike against payless housework Friday, saying "I appreciate my husband a little more because of the way he took this." Mrs. Wagner, 23, a mother of three, said she felt her walkout accomplished her objective: "To gain a little recognition for 120 hours of housework a week, with no pay."

For her husband, Tom, 25, the week was one of unwashed dishes and clothing, unmade beds, unswept rooms and protest signs bristling in the front yard.

SHORT NOTICE

J. R. Wiggins was sworn in as U.S. ambassador to the U.N. Friday at a White House short-notice ceremony. The Senate confirmed Wiggins's appointment earlier in the day and President Johnson explained that the new ambassador had asked him to omit the usual red carpet ceremonies and swear him in immediately so he could "get cracking" on his new job.

TRICKED

University of California President Charles Hitch said Friday a resolution adopted by Berkeley faculty members concerning the Eldridge Cleaver issue was not intended to be "a confrontation with the Regents." The Regents limited Cleaver to one lecture. He had been scheduled to deliver '10. A faculty resolution passed 668-114 Thursday urged sponsors of the course to "carry on the program of instruction this quarter . . . on campus . . . or off campus." (Related stories, Page A-3)

IMPROVED

Los Angeles county assessor Philip E. Watson, author of Proposition 9, was reported in improved condition Friday at St. Francis Hospital in Lynwood.

ARGUMENT

Negro playwright LeRoi Jones was arrested by Newark police Friday after an argument with a patrolman in a bank. He was released without bond. Police said they had a total of 14 charges against him, the most serious one an allegation of receiving stolen property.

ZSA ZSA HOME

Zsa Zsa Gabor, former Miss Budapest, returned to her home town Friday for the first time in 28 years. She immediately visited a dressmaker. The actress was met at the airport by her closest surviving relative in Budapest, her aunt, Mrs. Hugo Klein.

TRICK ENDS 17-DAY SIEGE

A relative tricked John James into surrender Friday, throwing his shotgun from a window of the Shropshire (England) farmhouse where James had held police at bay for 17 days. As the gun came out, a dozen police went in and James, a 28-year-old farmer with a history of mental illness, was arrested. His wife Joyce, 27, who had stuck by him through the long siege, was brought out unharmed along with the couple's four small children.

Francine Gottfried and her skimpy 43-inch bust were forgotten Friday as the bulls of Wall Street went howling mad over a pair of ladies who measure 47 and 50 inches. Police had to rescue both women from a noontime mob of 5,000 which had gathered at Wall and Broad Streets to glimpse Francine's two challengers. The mob knocked one of the women down and police commandeered the auto of a motorist to rush her to safety. The two women were Geri Stotts, 36, who traveled from Burbank, Calif., to show off her 47-29-39 figure, and Ronnie Bell, 19, a New York stripper who claims measurements of 50-22-37.

WESTY ILL

Gen. William C. Westmoreland entered Walter Reed Army Hospital Friday for treatment of a recurring intestinal disorder contracted while he was in South Vietnam. Westmoreland, former U.S. commander in South Vietnam, spent more than four years in Southeast Asia before President Johnson named him to the top Army post.

RACIAL HATRED

Chief Justice Earl Warren called Friday night for a massive government drive to solve the problems of racial hatred and distrust. In a speech that seemed like a valedictory, Warren said the Supreme Court must always stand ready to advance the rights of Negroes and other minority interests if the executive and legislative branches falter.

IKE SMILING

President Johnson visited a "smiling and talking" Dwight D. Eisenhower at Walter Reed Army Medical Center Friday and said the former president "looks just as good as I ever saw him." Eisenhower, 77, hospitalized here since May 14 and now recovering from his seventh heart attack, showed his old "infectious laugh," Johnson said, and urged the president to "stay awhile." They visited about 10 minutes. Johnson said Eisenhower was sitting and talking all the while.

FRANCIS BIDDLE

ROOSEVELT'S ATTY. GEN. BIDDLE DIES

Former Atty. Gen. Francis Biddle, the "fighting lawyer" who culminated his career as American judge on the four-power tribunal which tried Nazi war criminals, died Friday at Cape Cod Hospital. He was 82.

Schuyler Chapin, Biddle's nephew, said his uncle suffered a heart attack early Tuesday and was taken to the hospital from his summer home in Wellfleet on Cape Cod.

His wife, the former Katherine Garrison Chapin, was with Biddle when he died.

In 1941 President Roosevelt appointed Biddle to serve as U.S. attorney general. As chief legal officer of the U.S., Biddle ordered the internment of all suspected Axis sympathizers after the outbreak of WW II. Thousands of Japanese-born Americans were put in custody. Biddle culminated his public service career in 1945 when he was appointed to serve as a judge in the Nuernberg trials.

Rafferty Threatens Teachers on Cleaver

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Dr. Max Rafferty said Friday a school administrator or teacher who allows students to attend speeches by Black Panther Eldridge Cleaver risks revocation of his credential.

Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction and Republican U.S. Senate nominee, issued the warning in a letter to every city, county and district school superintendent in California.

He cited a speech by Cleaver at Sacramento

CLEAVER SPEAKS TO 7,500 AT UCLA

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Black Panther leader Eldridge Cleaver addressed a crowd of students estimated at 7,500 Friday in the Pauley Pavilion on the campus of UCLA as a guest of the Associated Students speakers program.

Cleaver, who described all the presidential candidates as "pigs," said, "We have got to get into a frame of mind where we realize that Karl Marx had a whole lot to say about how society should be run."

Cleaver said Gov. Ronald Reagan had "twisted the arms of the (University of California) regents and the courts to get rid of Eldridge Cleaver and send him back to prison." Cleaver is free on bail on charges of assault with intent to murder in a shoot-out with Oakland police.

The Board of Regents recently voted to permit Cleaver to make one appearance as a lecturer at the University of California in Berkeley.

Cranston Blasts Max' Viet Policy

SAN FRANCISCO (CNS) — Democratic senatorial candidate Alan Cranston charged Friday night the Vietnam war policy of his opponent, Max Rafferty, state superintendent of public instruction, is "a slippery slope to World War III and atomic holocaust."

"Rafferty scorns the (Paris) peace talks," Cranston said. "He advocates a larger war. He wants to give the North a seven-day ultimatum, and if that doesn't work he wants the people of the United States to abdicate their traditional control of the military—which this country has never done in its history—and turn the war over to the military to escalate."

"The former state controller told a $1000-a-plate fund raising dinner here that Rafferty has called for the end of the war through massive military measures. He termed such a policy 'one of the most dangerous and irresponsible proposals I have ever heard in all my years in public life.'"

Cranston said that Rafferty's policy of a military solution to the war has resulted in 20,000 American deaths "in defense of a series of corrupt and unrepresentative Saigon governments." He called Rafferty's proposal

"a superficial policy of professional demagoguery and amateur militarism."

"I don't want any more Americans to die in Vietnam," Cranston said. "If, despite our best efforts, negotiations fail and the war continues, I will fight to de-Americanize the war by a far more forceful drive to shift the burden to the people of South Vietnam. This must be accompanied by a phased withdrawal of our troops."

Cranston reiterated his earlier call for a halt to the bombing of North Vietnam as a means of getting the negotiations in Paris underway and testing the intentions of North Vietnam.

"If the North fails to reciprocate with a comparable de-escalation of the violence and, with good faith negotiations, there is nothing whatever to prevent us from resuming the bombing of North Vietnam if our military interest requires it," he said. "And in South Vietnam we must continue to give our troops all the tactical bombing required to afford them maximum air support and protection."

Cranston insisted he will hold to a "policy of peace despite Rafferty's accusations that I am 'perilously close to treason' and that I am advocating a 'policy of betrayal'."

Rafferty, in a Los Angeles speech and statement last Saturday, accused Cranston of a "policy of betrayal" and of being "perilously close to treason" in advocating a halt to the bombing of North Vietnam.

Boas, a San Francisco County supervisor, filed a formal complaint with the Fair Campaign Practices Committee (FPCPC), a national citizens organization supported by both parties which investigates complaints of unfair campaigning.

Boas said Rafferty "has exceeded the limits of free speech used in political campaigns."

"Decency and honesty and fair play dictate limits," Boas said, adding that Rafferty's use of the word "treason" against Alan Cranston violated the Fair Campaign Practices Committee standards.

"But we are beginning to gain," Brown said.

Brown, a state campaign leader for Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, said Humphrey is trailing Republican candidate Richard M. Nixon in Southern California.

"But we are beginning to gain," Brown said.

State College Tuesday as traveling beyond the scope of free speech or academic freedom.

Rafferty said his office has a tape recording of the speech, attended by about 4,500 persons, including some high school students who had written approval from their parents.

Rafferty said Cleaver's speech, larded with four-letter words, "advocated the overthrow of the government, maligned public officials, and extolled the teachings of Karl Marx."

In the letter, Rafferty said it was "inconceivable" that attendance by elementary or secondary students fell "within the scope of academic requirement or that such instruction in obscenity comes within the definition of free speech or academic freedom."

"I deem that any school administrator or other certificated employee, with the information hereby imparted, responsible for the presence of pupils at such an assembly is guilty of unprofessional conduct, jeopardizing his credential," he said.

Rafferty, whose department is empowered to start a revocation of credentials procedure, also warned the administrators that a school district "risks" loss of credit for average daily attendance "by allowing students to attend such a speech."

From Our State Bureau
SACRAMENTO — Campaign managers concerned with the three offices and 10 propositions which will appear on ballots throughout the state Nov. 5 won't have to apologize for directing most of their attention to Los Angeles and Orange Counties.

The two counties contain nearly as many voters — more than 43 percent — as the state's 58 other counties combined.

Figures released Friday by Secretary of State Frank Jordan show that there are 8,587,673 Californians eligible to vote Nov. 5. Of that total, 3,130,962 are in Los Angeles and another 580,886 are in Orange, for a two-county total of 3,712,848.

ORANGE COUNTY'S registration is the state's second largest, ahead of San Diego's 542,813.

Democrats continue to enjoy a registration superiority, Jordan's figures reveal, but it has lessened considerably since 1964, the last presidential election year.

The current Democratic registration is 4,347,406, or 54.4 per cent, and the 1964 figures were 4,737,886, or 57.9 per cent. Republican figures for 1968 are 3,462,131, or 40.3 per cent. In 1964 their 3,181,272 comprised 38.9 per cent of the total.

Republican State Chairman James B. Halley commented that "comparison of percentage figures showed a continued narrowing of the spread. The Republican Party has an all-time high in a number of total registrants."

STATEWIDE registration of George Wallace's American Independent Party is 94,478 and the Peace and Freedom Party has 71,532.

The Los Angeles County breakdown shows 1,742,928 Democrats, 1,216,994 Republicans, 43,383 American Independents, 21,071 Peace and Freedom, and 105,586 in miscellaneous parties or independents.

In Orange County, there are 243,469 Democrats, 306,696 Republicans, 7,059 American Independents, 1,091 Peace and Freedoms, and 22,571 in miscellaneous parties or undeclared. The two counties together claim more than half of the statewide registration of the American Independent Party.

ONLY THREE other counties in addition to Orange show Republican majorities — Alpine, Mono and San Diego. Alpine's grand total is 305 registered voters, of whom 122 are Democrats, 180 are Republicans and four declined to state a preference. Mono County has 1,045 Republicans and 944 Democrats, and San Diego has 257,944 Republicans and 253,926 Democrats.

Statewide, the total registration was up more than 240,000 over the 1966 figure and a little more than 400,000 higher than 1964, the last presidential year. In addition to the voters who registered as members of the four parties which have qualified for the ballot, 50,568 persons registered with splinter parties, and 233,583 declined to state a party preference.

Wallace Says He'd Quit Viet Rather Than Use A-Arms

BUFFALO, N.Y. (UPI) — George C. Wallace said Friday that as President he would take U.S. troops out of Vietnam rather than use nuclear weapons to win the war there.

Wallace said statements by his running mate, retired Air Force Gen. Curtis LeMay, who left open the possibility of using nuclear weapons, were made simply to avoid tipping this country's hand to the enemy.

LeMay said in a news conference at Pittsburgh that he did not believe nuclear weapons were necessary in Vietnam but that he favored using whatever was necessary to preserve national security.

"All Gen. LeMay says is not to tell the enemy what you're going to do," the former Alabama governor said in a local television interview. "But I'm already on record against nuclear weapons."

THOUGH WALLACE said he was convinced the war could be won with conventional weapons, he added that if the military said it could not be and negotiations had failed, the troops would have to be taken out.

"If all the military people said we couldn't win it — which they're not going to say — then we would have to come out," he said.

On another subject Wallace said he felt demonstrators who lie down in front of the President's car, should be "manhandled" but not run over. He said his statement that "if an anarchist lies down in front of my car it will be the last one he will want to lie down in front of," had been misinterpreted to mean he would run over them.

"THEY OUGHT to be jerked away and put in jail," he said, and "treated and manhandled pretty roughly." Wallace said "some people," though, "think they ought to be run over."

LeMay was to remain with Wallace through Saturday and then go to Los Angeles, where he will set up a permanent headquarters for the remainder of the campaign. The general has indicated he will campaign extensively and return to "the 18-hour day."

Meanwhile, LeMay, writing in the Saturday Evening Post, says strong alliances will be far more effective in preventing nuclear war than any international treaties.

SENATE SEAT OFFER TO LE MAY TOLD

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Frank Lausche, D-Ohio, said Friday retired Air Force Gen. Curtis E. LeMay turned down an opportunity to become a U.S. senator 23 years ago.

At the time, Lausche was governor of Ohio and he offered to appoint LeMay to fill the Senate seat vacancy created by President Harry S. Truman's appointment of Sen. Harold H. Burton to the Supreme Court.

"I offered the seat to LeMay," Lausche said. "He thought about it a while, but then decided to stay in the Air Force." LeMay, who Thursday became George C. Wallace's vice presidential candidate, was a national hero at the time, having commanded the bomber force which dropped atomic bombs on Japan, ending World War II.

which antiwar demonstrators have used to disrupt Humphrey rallies. The hugely outnumbered hecklers were drowned out by reverberating chants of "We want Nixon" from the strongly partisan audience.

"This is the important difference between a Nixon meeting and a Hubert Humphrey meeting," Nixon said in his opening remarks. "You shouted down the hecklers instead of the other way around."

The heckling seemed to fire up the crowd with greater ardor for Nixon and thereafter he received tumultuous applause and cheers at the end of practically every paragraph of his speech.

IT WAS THE worst heckling Nixon received during the campaign. He talked fast, and cut his speech 10 minutes short. Repeatedly during the talk, hecklers broke out with chants of "No, no, no."

He said the nation needs a Republican President as "dollar insurance" to protect purchasing power against further inroads by inflation.

He said Lyndon B. Johnson's Democratic administration has "fed the flame of inflation" by mismanagement of the nation's finances. Inflation now is burning up the purchasing power of the dollar at a rate of 4.5 per cent a year, he asserted.

McDonnell Vote 8,981 to 8,980

ST. LOUIS, Mo. (UPI) — The International Association of Machinists apparently defeated an independent union by one vote Friday night in balloting for the bargaining contract for 22,000 hourly employees of the McDonnell Douglas Corp. in St. Louis.

The IAM's present contract, involving about $1 million in yearly dues, expires in November.

The vote in the runoff election was 8,981 for the IAM and 8,980 for the Technical Employees of Aerospace Manufacturers (TEAM). But two challenged ballots made the outcome indefinite.

Harold Kessler, spokesman for the National Labor Relations Board, said the ballots would be opened and considered next Friday after the two sides have had an opportunity to file objections.

SIGNS STIR RACE UNREST IN SCHOOL

MENLO PARK (UPI) — Racially abusive signs were found in rest rooms at Menlo-Atherton High School Friday and about 200 Negro students went home.

Principal Douglas D. Murray ordered buses and told the Negro students they could go home if they wanted to. Menlo-Atherton has 350 Negro students.

"We are on the track of the students who posted the abusive signs, and we will deal with them," Murray said.

the draft and the Vietnam war. The group, according to USC faculty spokesmen, has only about 25 members on campus.

Muskie's applause far outweighed the smattering of boos he received in repeated exchanges with SDS members during a question and answer session.

Speaking against sitting out the election or going the third-party route, Muskie said it would be bad for the country to have this election undecided on Nov. 6. "This ought to be the year, above all, when the people can feel they have selected the president."

When a heckler challenged Muskie's suggestion that the people have three choices in November, Muskie fired back:

"Why is your answer to an argument always a noise? I'm trying to give a responsive answer. You throw this election into the House and the politicians WILL take over—is that clear enough?"

The students cheered. Things were less tense a few minutes earlier when Muskie took note of signs for Republican nominee Richard Nixon hanging from a balcony.

Muskie said he would like to "share with you" a few marginal notes on a street cleaner found on a Nixon speech text after a recent rally. The first note, according to Muskie's mischievous reading, said "Pause here," then, "Wipe brow." The next Nixon stage instruction read "Use angry fist gesture." And in a particularly moving passage, the marginal note said, "Look upward." Finally, in capital letters, was the note "Argument weak here. Yell like hell."

The question facing the nation, said Muskie, is whether we can restore trust and confidence in time to alleviate the nation's frustration.

One of them, he said, is the draft system. More than a fifth of draft board members are over the age of 70, and only 1.3 per cent are Negroes. And the system of selecting the oldest eligible man first "introduces a major disruption into the life of every young man from the time he is 18 until he is 26. He faces eight years of uncertainty as to when or whether he will be called for induction."

Muskie proposed these changes: —At age 19, all men eligible for the draft should be selected by lottery. Under this system a man would have but one year in his life when he was vulnerable to the draft.

—Make service more attractive through pay system reforms, better use of personnel, in specialties they are trained for, more use of civilian personnel in the military and careful re-examination of enlistment standards.

—Adoption of uniform national standards by local selective service boards for adequate appeals procedures and a greater effort to inform draft registrants of their status and timing of their induction.

—Careful consideration of permitting volunteer national service as an alternative to military service in such programs as the Peace Corps, Teacher Corps and VISTA.

Earlier, Muskie advocated a careful evaluation of the enemy mood before any U.S. unilateral action to end all bombing in North Vietnam.

Muskie gave his view at a Los Angeles press conference after acknowledging he had written letters to President Johnson last January suggesting a bombing halt. The President ordered discontinuance of 90 per cent of the bombing thereafter, on March 31.

The halt, said Muskie, did not produce substantive negotiations. And so, even if the remaining 10 per cent is halted, "we are still faced with the basic problem we faced in January, which is the question of whether North Vietnam is committed to negotiated settlement."

And if they are thus committed, then "can we get them moving toward substantive negotiations?"

"NOW WE HAVE to guess what their response would be," Muskie said. A complete cessation, he added, "may be a very valuable card to play if we take the step at the time they are receptive."

But before we do, Muskie said, we should examine every piece of evidence and make a constant evaluation of all of them.

Humphrey Sees Upsurge, Calls Opponents Dangerous

By STEVE GERSTEL

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Hubert H. Humphrey, racing against the calendar, anticipates a "very dramatic change" later this month which will sweep him ahead of Richard M. Nixon and into the presidency.

Humphrey claims enthusiasm for his candidacy will begin to surface as the campaign moves into the closing weeks.

"I hope there is enough time between now and Nov. 5," the vice president said. "This is the big problem we have, but I think we have the enthusiasm now and the enthusiasm is very contagious. And I think we are going to see a very dramatic change in the last couple of weeks in October."

AFTER A gruelling two weeks on the road, Humphrey returned to Washington for his first real break since the campaign opened. He scheduled only staff meetings, some filming and a trip to the World Series in Detroit on Sunday before returning to the trail Monday.

In a statement delivered before television cameras, Humphrey described as "frightening and dangerous" the nuclear policies of his two rivals for the presidency.

He charged Nixon with "evasion, equivocation and failure to take leadership of the Republican Party" on the question of ratification of the nuclear non-proliferation treaty, designed to keep nuclear weapons out of the hands of nations not now possessing them.

HUMPHREY said Nixon: "As leader of the Republican Party it is within his power to guarantee ratification. Failure to do so shows his lack of interest in building world peace. Delay in ratifying the treaty can be deadly dangerous."

He also was critical of the vice presidential candidates of his two opponents. He said Americans should remember that if elected as vice president, Spiro T. Agnew or Curtis E. LeMay could become president and their fingers "would be on the nuclear trigger." He said LeMay, running with George C. Wallace, was a man "who looks on the atom bomb as just another weapon."

HUMPHREY said the Wallace-LeMay ticket supports "brute force at home and catastrophic force abroad to solve our international problems."

"Such a violent attitude can only lead to more violence," he said. "It can tear the nation apart and terrify the world."

DENY LBJ 'HOLDS OUT' ON HHH

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The White House said Friday President Johnson "is not holding out on anything" in his support of Hubert H. Humphrey and "will do whatever is appropriate to assist him" in his bid for the presidency.

Press Secretary George Christian made the comments while scoffing at a published report that Johnson had refused to allow use in the Humphrey campaign of $700,000 built up from sale of ads in a book on Democratic accomplishments.

Columnists Rowland Evans and Robert Novak wrote that the funds were sequestered in a bank vault in New York City and were being kept away from the needy Humphrey campaign fund. They said the money came from sale of ads in a book started in 1965 by Richard M. Maguire, then Democratic national treasurer.

He issued another in a series of position papers, proposing to share federal tax revenues with states and localities. He said that in a Humphrey-Muskie administration, a limited amount of taxes collected by the federal government — perhaps $5 billion or $10 billion — would go to the states, allocated primarily on the basis of population.

THE vice president returned from his second major swing — more than 10,000 miles in 15 days — tired but more encouraged even though he is consistently running behind Nixon in the polls. Humphrey feels the second swing went well and said the campaign "has picked up vitality and energy and enthusiasm."

"I feel we're getting a great deal, a number of young people, working with us," he said.

"The party organization is better united now. Those who were hesitant to speak up in my behalf are now beginning to speak up. Our message is getting through at last."

Asked whether he thought he could overtake Nixon in the remaining five weeks of the campaign, Humphrey said "Yes, I do. Of course, I have to feel that way, but I really do."

"We've done a lot of selective polling. These polls indicate that we have picked up appreciably, particularly in the heavily populated states."

PICKETS TO BE PICKETED

Pickets will picket pickets today as the pro and con forces on the subject of unionizing California's grape pickers move to the Lakewood Shopping Center, Candlewood Street and Lakewood Boulevard.

Announcement that the United Farm Workers organizing committee would picket the Boys, Hughes and Lucky food markets at the center from 11 a.m. to 5 p.m. brought two counter groups — the Young Americans for Freedom and the Housewives United to Protect Food Supplies — into the fray.

The YAF contingent, drawn from students at Long Beach and Lakewood high schools, will picket against the grape boycott called by the United Farm Workers.

Rod Bourland, YAF spokesman, said his group plans to "stay out there as long as the unionizers do."

'Dragnet' Shows Preach Too Much

By GEORGE ERES
TV-Radio Editor

Without the law we are nothing, and without the enforcement arm the law is nothing, so I have very little sympathy with "fuzz haters" and nothing but commendation for any action which aims at improving law enforcement and putting police departments in proper perspective.

And before this gets out of hand completely, it should be noted that the police themselves are not above the law either. Most of the police I've known don't think they are; I can't say the same for a lot of non-police I've known.

So I hope that I don't get rapped on the knuckles for saying something not too complimentary about a couple of recent "Dragnet" shows.

JACK WEBB, the producer and star of the series, carries a note on the film about the series being made with the cooperation of the Los Angeles Police Department. Similarly, "The FBI" carries such a note. Someone has pointed out, with justice, I think, that this sort of thing—which may have been prompted with the idea of lending authenticity to the shows—also carries with it some inherent backtracking from any kind of objective comment on police or FBI. That seems pretty obvious, but it's not the concern here.

"Dragnet," in its first couple of programs, has been little more than a public relations arm of the police department. I've no particular quarrel with this, but the show has been a bit heavy-handed in carrying out this commendable program. The result has been that the shows have not been "stories" but essays. I don't see anything wrong with this kind of a show once in a while, or even using the idea in subdued form all the time, but there has been an overemphasis on a lecture approach which makes "Dragnet" drag. It doesn't help a bit either when everybody on the scene talks like Jack Webb.

OF COURSE, TV gets preachy about other things besides just the police. Some of the treatments of the Negro question on various series shows get preachy, too. The motives are good, but one would hope for a little better presentation.

In this connection, Bill Duncan, a newspaperman who recently left the field to free lance was telling me about an interview he had with a young policeman on the L.A.P.D., George Lamprey, 22, who is just starting out in the field. He was assigned to a car, "Adam-11," the same day "Adam-12" premiered on the network. Naturally, he went Code 7 to watch it.

Duncan asked him what he thought about the show.

"Well, we kid a lot about the shows, but nearly all the police watch all those police shows, 'Dragnet,' 'Adam 12,' 'N.Y.P.D.' and 'Ironside.'"

VLADIMIR HOROWITZ, whose "Television Concert at Carnegie Hall" was aired Sept. 22, was pessimistic about the chances for the program and was of the opinion that it probably would never have rerun value.

I don't know about the rerun strength, but he was wrong about the rerun. CBS is repeating the show Dec. 25.

The show was buried in the rating race when it first aired. Anyone could have predicted that — also showing at the same hour was "Bonanza" and the film "Zorba the Greek."

Mr. Horowitz doesn't have to feel too bad about that. Even the "Beverly Hillsbillies" doesn't do well when it is on opposite a relatively new motion picture.

The rerun time is Dec. 25 at 7:30 p.m. "It's a time when people will be at home," said CBS president Thomas H. Dawson. They were home Sept. 22, too. But Sunday at 7:30 p.m. should give Horowitz a bigger audience this time.

The most difficult new car sale I ever made was with a customer who offered endless objections, such as, "What if I should lose my job, or what if I should get sick, or what if I get transferred to a foreign country, or what if I get a pay cut?"

The story I then told him was about 2 spinsters sitting in front of a huge fireplace. For no apparent reason, one of them burst into a flood of bitter tears. Her sister, greatly upset, cried, "Nell, Nell, are you sick? Should I call a doctor?" After her sobbing had some what subsided, Nell answered with tears still streaming down her face, "I was thinking IF I had met some nice young man and IF I had married him, and IF we had a nice little girl, and IF she fell into the fireplace and burned to death—wouldn't that be terrible??"

Folks, if you don't buy that new Chev. or fine used car from me, it will be terrible! I I GA 6-5341, 3770 Cherry.

L.B. Woman Donates $100 to Sirhan

A Long Beach woman, whose name is being withheld, is the greatest contributor to a "defense fund" for Sirhan B. Sirhan, the accused assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

The woman, who sent a letter and $100 to Sirhan, is the second contributor to the fund set up for Sirhan after it became known he was penniless. The first contribution from Australia, was $5.

Sirhan's attorney, Russell Parsons, said Friday all the monies needed to handle the case thus far came out of his office. "We haven't touched the fund... what little there is," he said.

He said proceeds from a book being written about Sirhan would go toward the 24-year-old Jordanian national's defense. The lawyer, however, declined to comment on the book other than it shouldn't be published before the trial.

"It's a private matter with the family, and I shouldn't discuss that," Parsons told newsmen.

Robert Blair Kaiser, who reportedly has exclusive rights to Sirhan's life story, accompanied defense investigators to Sirhan's court appearance Friday. Kaiser, defense aides said, is also acting as an investigator for the defense and has visited Sirhan several times in the jail. No other writers have been allowed to talk with the defendant.

Parsons said he and his family "have received threats on our lives, as little as two weeks ago, and both by telephone and letter, but I try to shrug them off."

"I have protection. The police watch me and my home and I've hired a private detective to watch my home and family — that's all we can do."

His family, he admitted, "thinks I'm a damned fool for getting into this" and has asked him many times to "get out."

But he won't, he said, although he is under "constant strain" in handling the case and said he sometimes wakes up at 3 a.m. "wondering what to do."

His client, he said, also is feeling "more nervous" as the trial approaches.

"He's doing pretty well under the circumstances, however," Parsons said. "I told him to exercise — jog around his cell — but I don't know if he's doing it."

Letters continue to flow into the sheriff's office, both for and against his client, Parsons said. He said he allows Sirhan to read only the ones that are complimentary.

"Why depress him?" Parsons asked. "Some letters say he's a hero, some say 'I wish I'd done it myself.'"

But, said Parsons, "I don't believe he thinks he's a hero. He's in jail — I think he knows he's in trouble." — By Mary Neiswender.

team, it was Fitz who gave the three-word answer — "It is agreeable" — when Judge Schauer announced the appointment of the trial judge.

THE prosecution, headed this time by Compton, had more to say at the press conference following the hearing, but even then was outstaged by the easy-talking Parsons, who explained to newspaper and television newsmen reasons for his motions.

In the evidence Parsons says he wants to see — via the discovery motion — is "an inch-thick volume on the case... a resume... made by the FBI, notwithstanding their denial that they're investigating the crime."

The book, Parsons charged, is in the hands of Dist. Atty. Evelle J. Younger, and "I want to look at it."

"HOW many FBI men are at work on this case I don't know — but they are," Parsons said.

The FBI has steadfastly denied it is involved in the investigation of the slaying of the 42-year-old Kennedy, who was shot minutes after claiming victory in the California primary at a rally in the Ambassador Hotel.

Parsons also seeks to pry out of the district attorney's office the names of witnesses talked to by investigators, and copies of their statements.

"We want to know who they interviewed at the Ambassador — barmaids, waiters, bartenders. I want to know what condition he (Sirhan) was in," the attorney said.

"WE ALSO want to know who they interviewed at Corona. Hospital attendants there have records of their treatment of Sirhan after he was injured in a horse accident, but we were refused these records."

The denial, he said, is "very typical" of the treatment he had received.

The motion to suppress evidence, Parsons explained, was "to prevent the district attorney from offering in evidence certain exhibits, memoranda, trial delay and locking up the jurors.

"Our position is we are prepared to go to trial Nov. 1, and we are not in favor of locking jurors up for a long period of time — it would be solitary confinement for jurors, they'd be prisoners of the court for three months. It's better to rely on the good judgment of jurors," he said.

"It would be harder too," he added, "to seat a jury because a large number would object — the selection project would be extended."

books, papers with writing on them, found in the room allegedly occupied by Sirhan Sirhan at the home of his mother, without benefit of a search warrant and at some distance from the crime."

PARSONS, who later admitted there were "more than three" notebooks involved, was apparently referring to one notebook which reportedly contained a passage indicating Kennedy "must die before June 5, 1968."

(Sirhan reportedly is an Arab patriot who was disturbed over a pro-Israel statement made by the New York senator in a television show a few days before he was killed. Last June 5 was the first anniversary of the five-day Arab-Israeli war.)

Earlier, Compton told newsmen the prosecution was ready to present evidentiary material proving that the notebooks were "properly obtained," but would not fight the discovery motion.

"THE defense is entitled to evidence and we'll give them what they're entitled to," he said.

Compton objected to a

The board of directors of the Southern California Rapid Transit District revealed Friday the district attorney's office has requested an investigation into rumors of alleged irregularities in the sale of surplus property and purchases from two other bus companies.

The investigation, ordered by the RTD's board of directors, came as a result of a meeting between two representatives of the Los Angeles County district attorney's office and RTD acting general manager and general counsel Milton McKay, said RTD board chairman Don C. McMillan.

The district attorney's representatives, McMillan said, were interested in certain records of the district's operations "involving the sale of surplus property, the purchase of Pasadena and Inglewood bus properties and bid specifications for purchases."

McMillan said McKay offered full cooperation, and that all records and books of the district would be "made available to them for thorough investigation."

McMillan noted that "the state auditor general's office gave our rapid transit program a thorough audit only a year ago," which resulted "in a clean bill of health for the district."

"We have no knowledge of anything wrong," he said. "But if such (is) revealed by the investigation we are launching today, the board guarantees that immediate and decisive action will be taken."

that all firemen "will have guns."

"That was never our intention at all," he said.

Only leading officers were to be equipped with the riot guns, Hill said. But, he said, the phrase used in newspaper stories went beyond that.

HILL said the 60 riot guns — automatic shotguns — were ordered after staff meetings last May when "the prognosis for the summer was pretty bad."

The chief said he believes "firmly" that defense of firemen should be "a police function." Nevertheless, he added, he had spoken with Yorty shortly before noon and felt chastened for failing to tell the mayor of the purchase order for the shotguns.

The bill for the shotguns will be about $5,000, Hill said, reportedly due the low bidder on the guns — Olympic Wholesale Co. of Los Angeles.

HE SAID he doesn't know what will be done with the shotguns now, and added he wished "we hadn't placed the order."

He denied emphatically that the furor was a political issue.

"The fire department is not involved in politics," he said. "I'm not a politician, so I don't know if the furor was political."

MOON ECLIPSE

Werewolves and other critters dependent on the moon are in for a nerve-wracking time early Sunday when old luna goes dark red during its second total eclipse of the year, predicted to begin at 4:09 a.m.

But astronomers and other human skywatchers are in for a visual treat when the usually bright full moon glides behind the earth's shadow.

The U.S. Naval Observatory in Washington, D.C., said East Coast residents won't see the full eclipse, but "the farther west you go the more you will be able to see."

If skies are clear in the Long Beach area, the eclipse should be fully visible here.

The eclipse is due to end at 5:13 a.m. as the moon sinks below the western horizon.

Bribe Case Lease Airs in Court

Mystified Los Angeles Administrative Officer C. Erwin Piper said Friday he had never heard of a proposed $225,000 Harbor Department site improvement plan for the ship restaurant SS Princess Louise.

Piper made the declaration during the Los Angeles Superior Court trial of onetime Harbor Commissioner George D. Watson, charged with bribery and conflict of interest.

Judge William B. Keene Friday ordered a nine-day recess in the case until Oct. 14. The jurist excused the jury because, he said, a State Bar convention and a California Trial Judge conference are scheduled for next week in San Diego.

THE BRIBERY charge against Watson accuses him of acquiring an advantage from San Pedro developer Keith Smith in January 1967 to acquire 2,000 shares of Civic National Bank stock. It is charged the advantage was given in exchange for favorable consideration by Watson on projects Smith had, before the Harbor Commission.

The conflict charge asserts that Watson voted to grant a lease to the Princess Louise for Los Angeles Harbor dock space after putting up $10,400 to buy the vessel's liquor license.

Piper said Friday that when he saw the Princess Louise application, no mention of the proposal the city spend $225,000 for site development for the vessel was included.

IN RESPONSE to questioning by Dep. Dist. Atty. Michael Montagna, Piper said that had the proposal been appended to the application, it might have altered city approval.

"This was an element of cost to the city which certainly should have appeared one way or another in the lease documents," Piper said.

The prosecution has intimated that Watson either removed — or ordered the removal of — the proposal from the lease papers.

PIPER also told the court that he had received two telephone calls urging him to "speed up the Princess Louise project." One came from Deputy Mayor Mrs. Eleanor Chambers, the other from Bernard J. Caughlin, general manager of the Harbor Department, Piper said.

CITIES TRY TO DEFEAT PROP. NINE

Twelve cities in Orange County rallied Friday behind a countywide organization set up to aid defeat of Proposition 9 on the Nov. 5 general election ballot.

Former Mayor Charles A. Pearson of Anaheim was named chairman of the Orange County Committee Against the Tax Trap, as it was called.

Pearson said membership also includes representatives of other organizations such as Parent-Teacher Associations, chambers of commerce homeowners' associations, who object to Proposition 9 because it "is not a sound proposal to limit taxation."

The Bellflower Education Association is on record as opposed to Proposition 9, the so-called Watson Property Tax Amendment, Marilyn Russell, president, said Friday.

"Proposition 9 would cause untold havoc to the public schools in every community in California," Mrs. Russell declared. "Every city, county and special service district in the state would also be plunged into unimaginable economic confusion."

The initiative is a cruel hoax in that it would harm the very class of taxpayer it is purported to help. Proposition 9 drastically cuts property tax revenues, but the replacement tax revenues necessary to keep schools and local government services in operation would more than offset property tax savings by individual homeowners," Mrs. Russell said.

L.A. Firm Sues Assessor Watson for $2 Million

LOS ANGELES (AP) — County Assessor Philip E. Watson was sued for more than $2 million Friday by a firm claiming he owes them money for helping obtain signatures to put Prop. 9 on the Nov. 5 ballot.

The suit was filed by Robinson & CVO, Inc., of Los Angeles, a firm that specializes in obtaining signatures for initiative and referendum elections.

A spokesman for the Citizens Committee for Property Tax Limitation said Watson, who was hospitalized with heart trouble Sunday night, probably will not be told about the suit.

Hunt On for Edison Bomber

The search for a man in a business suit who drove a red sports car continued Friday as police pressed their investigation of the bombing of a Southern California Edison Co. power station in Belmont Shore.

"If the bomb had been planted inside the station the whole thing would have gone up," said Capt. Bob Hill. The Thursday night blast tore a gaping hole in the Edison substation at Third Street and Nieto Avenue.

"They were expert at making bombs, but not so expert in where to plant them," Hill said.

THE EXPLOSION shattered windows in nearby homes and jarred buildings a half-mile away when it went off shortly before 8:25 p.m. Neighborhood residents told police they saw a tall man wearing a business suit leave the blast scene seconds before the detonation. He was driving the small, red sports car and was carrying a briefcase.

The explosion was the latest in a series of California public utility bombings that started in the San Francisco Bay area last March.

Whether the Long Beach blast was related to Northern California's March, April and June utility sabotage was unknown, but the Navy entered the Southland case when its demolition experts claimed bomb fragments for analysis.

THE FBI entered the Northern California cases in which Pacific Gas and Electric Co. installations were bombed by a saboteur who remains uncaptured.

The Long Beach bomb, tied to detonation wires at the base of a palm tree across the street, exploded beneath a carbon dioxide fire extinguisher control box on an outside wall about four feet above the ground.

The explosion was heard as far away as Lakewood.

Endorses Humphrey

SANTA BARBARA (AP) — The Santa Barbara News-Press endorsed the Democratic candidate, Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey, for president Friday.

"Goodness, this is an awfully high estimate for new brakes. How much would it cost just to make the horn louder?"

State Abortion Law Faces First Big Test

SAN FRANCISCO (CNS) — The state Supreme Court has agreed to hear a case believed the first major challenge of the constitutionality of California's abortion law. The court granted the hearing on an appeal by Los Angeles physician, Dr. Leon Philip Belous.

Dr. Belous, was found guilty in a court trial Jan. 17, 1967, of a conspiracy to commit abortion and abortion. He was subsequently placed on probation and fined $5,000 on Feb. 27, 1967, by Superior Court Judge John G. Barnes. The physician referred a patient to another doctor for an abortion.

Dr. Belous, the petition for the hearing noted, made the referral after becoming convinced that the patient, Cheryl Bryant, would do "anything under the sun to get rid of her baby. The petition said Miss Bryant has since married her fiancé, who impregnated her.

The challenge declared the right of a woman not to be compelled to bear a child must be considered a personal right of the most intimate and highest moment.

"The right to plan families by the use of contraceptives, is different in but the smallest degree from the right to so do when contraceptives fail

San Mateo Plumbers Get $374.80 a Week

DOUBT TEACHER CASTRO'S RETURN

Controversial teacher Sal Castro, newly reinstated to the faculty of Lincoln High School by the Los Angeles Board of Education, "probably won't return to the school Oct. 14 as he has announced," a source close to the board said Friday night.

Castro, who said Friday he has taken a part-time job as consultant to the U.S. Department of Justice, "in all likelihood will make the post permanent, much to the relief of the board and the Los Angeles school system," the source said.

The highly placed educator, who asked that his name not be used, said the board and the school system had been trying "for more than a month to place Castro in a job that would get everybody off the hook."

"The Department of Justice post may be the angle the board and the system have been looking for," the source said.

The board Thursday night voted 5-1 to allow Castro to return to his classroom following a protest and a sit-in climaxed by the arrest of 35 persons.

Castro said Friday his job in Washington would keep him away from Lincoln High School until Oct. 14.

He was transferred out of his classroom after he was indicted by the County Grand Jury on a felony conspiracy charge of encouraging last spring's walkouts by Mexican-American students at five East Los Angeles high schools.

Castro described his part-time Washington job

as "a resource person when they have conferences."

The source defined "resource person" as a catch-all term for a position not fitting any particular category.

"It can be a convenient device for 'taking care' of people," the source said. "I think that's what it is in Castro's case."

FACE BRONZED BY SUN, ED WHITE RELAXES AT HOME
'Avocation' Puts Him in Contact With Film, TV Stars

SCENE-STEALER? NOPE, He RENTS 'EM

He Keeps Hollywood Afloat

By GEORGE LAINE
Staff Writer

A couple of weeks ago the company of "Skidoo" — including Carol Channing, Jackie Gleason, Frankie Avalon and other stars — celebrated the completion of the film with that show business tradition, the cast party, and Ed White got an invitation.

"You're not going?" his buddies in the Los Angeles Harbor Department asked incredulously. "All those starlets, and the big name stars — and you're not going?"

Ed gave them a straightforward answer.

"I'm not the kind of a guy who goes for that sort of thing," he said. "I'd be out of place."

THEY HELD the party without Ed and not one of the cast members even thought of his action as a snub; most of them knew him too well.

Ed White might not seem like a big deal to you, but in Hollywood circles he is regarded as "Mr. Never-Miss." He sets up locations for motion pictures and television companies which demand harbor or ocean environments, and he has been known to use the motto "If it floats, we can get it for you — from a battlewagon to a skiff."

Battlewagons are hard to come by these days, and Ed is candidly happy that no movie maker has asked for one. Otto Preminger needed a luxury yacht for "Skidoo" and Ed went right out and leased John Wayne's Wild Goose for the film. He once "borrowed" a submarine from the Navy as a location prop.

"We've never failed yet," he said, "in coming up with the location and props demanded."

Since his first effort (TV's "Follow the Sun" series in 1958), Ed has done set locations for "Arrest and Trial," "Run For Your Life," "Bob Hope's Chrysler Theater," "McHale's Navy," "T.H.E. Cat" and a host of others, all for video, plus a variety of films including "Ensign Pulver," "The Revolution of Antonio de Leon," "Easy Come, Easy Go," "The Dark Wine Sea" and others.

Ed, who has rubbed elbows with Robert Walker, Burl Ives, Lee Marvin, Yul Brynner, Fernando Lamas, Peter Lawford, Elvis Presley, Groucho Marx, Michael Ansara, Jill St. John, Edward G. Robinson, Julie Andrews, George Hamilton and dozens more, has had a chance to test his dramatic ability in some of the TV and motion pictures for which he provided locations.

"I'm not much of an actor," Ed chuckled, settling back with a large mug of coffee in the lanai-office he maintains at the rear of his home at 2163 Charlemagne Ave. "But I thought it would be fun to try and I wasn't the least bit scared."

Establishing beachfront locations for film companies is still his major avocation. "In the course of a year," White explained, "I probably won't handle more than a dozen or so of these location things."

He has a logical excuse for this seeming lack of action in his work of providing seagoing environments. For 11 years White has been a full-time deputy port warden for the Port of Los Angeles.

Born in St. Louis, Mo.,

Ed was brought by his parents to Long Beach when he was 3 ("I try to pass myself off as a native son most of the time," he says).

If his parents thought he showed unusual preoccupation with the ocean, they never let on, and they didn't say a word when Ed, at age 14, went to work on a commercial fishing boat out of San Pedro.

When Ed married, he didn't give up his love of, and work on, the sea. Instead, he involved his wife, Polly, in that life, and when their children were born involved them, too. His eldest son, Edgar Jr., 18, is regarded by most skin-diving experts as one of the most exemplary divers in action today. And his daughter, Cindy, 9, is also "crazy about the sea."

Ed has had his hands full on some of his assignments. He created an entire isle (atop a large raft, for Standard Oil's Chevron Island commercial, but that wasn't half as sticky as an assignment for a

Private Rites Pend for Home Fire Victim

Private services are pending for a Lakewood man who was burned to death Friday in a fire which swept through his home and caused an estimated $15,000 damages.

Los Angeles County firemen found the body of Arthur D. Weidner, 59, lying in a doorway to the den in his home at 5341 Premiere Ave., after they had extinguished the flames shortly before 5 a.m.

His wife, Helen, who had been asleep in a nearby bedroom, crawled out of the house through a window, firemen said.

Sheriff's arson investigator Sgt. Walter Johnston said the fire was started by a smoldering cigarette in a couch in the den.

The blaze had worked its way to the front door of the home by the time fire crews, under Battalion Chief George Taylor, arrived at the scene about 4:40 a.m.

Mrs. Weidner reportedly told investigators that her husband was asleep in the den, which is at the rear of the house, when she went to bed about midnight.

She was awakened by smoke and, seeing flames under the bedroom door, escaped out a window. Neighbors turned in the alarm.

Tustin Postmaster

President Johnson sent to the Senate Friday the nomination of Ronald D. Huisenga for postmaster of Tustin.

HELEN O'CONNELL AT L.B. POLICE DANCE

Back in New York, critics report that Helen O'Connell, the onetime Jimmy Dorsey Band vocalist who had a half a dozen records which sold more than a million copies each in the 40s, is better than ever.

The curious will find out for themselves when the Long Beach Police Show and Dance gets going at 7:30 tonight in Long Beach Arena.

Miss O'Connell will headline a show that also features the Jimmy Henderson Orchestra, comic Johnny O'Brien, the Dan Harrison Singers, the Lyons Family acrobatic comedy team, and a number of "surprise" performers.

Police Officers Association President James L. MacDonald said the show and dance would afford Long Beach citizens an opportunity to "meet and know" the city's men in blue.

Last year the show and dance attracted nearly 5,000 persons, and indications are that the 1968 show will exceed that crowd total. Tickets are on sale at the Arena up to showtime.

Woman Accountant Accuses City of Sex Discrimination

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

A woman accountant complained to the Long Beach City Council by letter Friday that she was discriminated against in seeking a city job because of her sex.

Mrs. Jeannette M. Phillips, 7133 Rosebay St., said she was told by at least two city departments that they had never hired a woman accountant before, and that men in the office would object to a woman joining them.

Mrs. Phillips, who emphasized that she no longer is interested in a city job, said she is a licensed accountant, and that she passed a Long Beach civil service examination a year ago.

"Since that time, although the city has several times advertised for accountants, I have not been employed," she wrote.

"I am well spoken, reserved, not aggressive, and accustomed to working with people, both under supervision and in management capacity," Mrs. Phillips said.

"It is my opinion that I am being discriminated against because I am a woman."

She said she wrote the letter to help pave the way for other women applying for jobs in areas which have been predominantly filled by men.

The letter will be on the City Council agenda Tuesday.

RESEARCH AT VA HOSPITAL

1 Cigarette Can Aggravate Heart Ailment, Study Shows

By BEN ZINSER
Medical-Science Editor

The smoking of a single high-nicotine cigarette can adversely affect the victim of angina pectoris, a heart ailment marked by severe chest pain.

This has just been shown by Long Beach medical researchers who now are finding, in a newer research project, that low-nicotine cigarettes aren't much help in improving the heart patient's lot.

The smoking research, in progress at Long Beach Veterans Administration Hospital, is reported in the latest issue of Annals of Internal Medicine, a medical journal published by the American College of Physicians.

DR. WILBERT S. ARONOW, staff physician in the cardiology section at the VA Hospital and an assistant clinical professor of medicine at UC Irvine, conducted the research with the assistance of Dr. Marvin A. Kaplan, chief of the cardiology section, and Dr. Desiderio Jacob, former resident physician at the VA.

The study was conducted to evaluate an impression that many coronary patients develop angina on less provocation after smoking.

Angina pectoris is a condition in which the heart muscle receives an insufficient blood supply, commonly resulting when the arteries supplying the heart muscle are narrowed by atherosclerosis (fatty thickening).

When angina occurs, it is marked by severe pain in the chest, often spreading to the arms or neck. There may be a sense of suffocation. These sensations are caused by a momentary inability of the coronary arteries to supply an adequate amount of oxygen and blood to the heart muscle.

At the VA Hospital, researchers used an exercise device called a bicycle ergometer. Tested were 10 male patients with angina pectoris due to coronary artery disease. Subjects exercised on the stationary bicycle until they developed first signs of angina.

Each patient exercised four times after not smoking and four times after smoking one cigarette of high-nicotine content for five minutes.

Smoked were king-size, nonfilter cigarettes.

All subjects developed angina sooner if they smoked before exercising.

The shorter time it took for smokers to develop angina, compared to those who didn't smoke before exercise, was marked, researchers found. Participants who smoked got pain 8 to 35 per cent sooner, with an average of 24 per cent.

Dr. Aronow explains that coronary patients, when they exercise, increase their heart muscle's demand for oxygen. And when they smoke beforehand, heart rate and blood pressure are increased, which raises the amount of oxygen needed by the heart muscle.

THE PHYSICIAN says that some patients get angina at rest merely by smoking a number of cigarettes in a row.

"Our recommendation is that these patients don't smoke at all," Dr. Aronow says.

Unfortunately, he says, only about one-half quit the habit.

Now being studied are the effects of low-nicotine cigarettes upon angina victims. Preliminary evidence indicates that these also are harmful, although to a lesser degree than the high-nicotine products.

Cake With a Message

Walker's Department Store selected a topical, timely theme for its annual birthday celebration — No. 35 in this presidential election year. And it's about as nonpartisan as a cake can be, with pink elephant and donkey atop the 1,300-pound, white-frosted concoction and campaign slogans displayed in the window case at Fourth Street and Pine Avenue. Although this one is inedible, real cake will be produced for consumption at the traditional Walker Birthday Party for customers—with prizes awarded for slices holding pennies.

1,400 Teamsters Get Medical Screening

Nearly 1,400 members of the Teamsters union, working at a Fullerton cannery, are recipients of the first mass mobile medical screening project in the United States, spokesmen for the labor organization said.

Lee Kearney, secretary-treasurer of Teamsters Local 952, said the examinations, which began Friday, are being administered at the Hunt-Wesson Cannery, 1645 W. Valencia Drive, in three 10-by-60 foot, air-conditioned vans by a team of 30 physicians, nurses, technicians and assistants.

About 30 canning companies and three local unions are involved in the overall program, paid for by a one-cent-per-hour contribution from employers.

The thorough exams would cost individuals up to $140, Kearney said.

Week's Wall Street Trend

BY ROBERT M. KALB AP Business Writer		By GEOFFREY PARKINSON Technical Analyst With Paine, Webber, Jackson & Curry
NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was moved last week by the momentum of a long string of advances. Powered by renewed popularity of better grade issues, traders attributed much of the trust to an explosive breakthrough of prices higher than two weeks of stubborn ast. Apart from technical considerations, inflationary aspects appeared unimpaired; economic news continued to be of bullish flavor, and few signs of any unfinished business activity before early next year appeared in sight. Industry and large Wall Street also saw chances of a Republican victory in the coming elections as favorable to the economic community. The market began the week on a strong note and climbed to a higher ground Tuesday in heavy trading. When the accumulated pressure of Wednesday's paperwork was unleashed Thursday, turnover swelled to a record first level of 6.74 million shares. A total of 1,618 issues changed hands in the broad trading in history with volume soaring to 21.11 billion shares Thursday, second only to the 23.35 million shares traded June 13. In what some in Wall Street were calling the strongest market of record, Thursday also saw the Dow Jones industrial average break through to 49.47, topping the Sept. 5, 1967 recovery peak of 48.08. Traders were not to be denied Friday, and the Dow industrial added 3.48, crashing through a potential 950 barrier to reach 52.95 at the close. Only the historic high of 955.15, attained Feb. 9, 1966, stood ahead. In its forward advance, the Dow added 19.15 for the week, and marked a gain of more than 200 points over two years. Of 1,707 issues traded during the week, 990 advanced and 579 declined. Until Friday, the market racked up 12 straight sessions where advances exceeded declines. Volume for the four-day trading week was 5,552,351 shares, compared with 59,576,754 shares the previous week.		Substantial and significant progress was indicated by the recent advance of most major averages to new highs. The recent outstanding performance of the DJIA resulted in a Dow theory bull market signal. The DJIA has eliminated the last real resistance level below the 1966 high of 1000. The DJIA is much closer to its all-time high of 275. A decisive rally above 275 would be a very leading factor. It would suggest new highs for the DJIA over the near to medium term. Up so sharply, so swiftly, the market is expected to be less dynamic over the shorter term. At least a minor phase of consolidation is likely at current levels. However, without an upside failure or downside momentum, no real pullbacks are expected over the shorter term. Recent tape action has emphasized the special situation—i.e. United Fruit, Great American Holding. Despite the over-all strength many of the more leading areas were somewhat sluggish. The airlines appear to be consolidating recent gains, but they do not appear finished on the upside. The autos and computers look neutral to slightly weak on a shorter term basis. Oils remain strong and look higher. Chemicals and steels have lost their recent upward momentum and look neutral. Savings and loan stocks and building issues are consolidating and correcting earlier gains, but the over-all outlook remains strong. Paper issues continue to gain momentum and are expected to move higher over near to medium term.
THERE ARE a number of stocks that have recently moved to new highs which are regarded favorable for the near to medium term. GAF Corp. (28) which recently rallied from a broad base in the 20-25 area has a near term count of the low 30s and looks considerably higher long term. Hammond Corp. (26) is in a gradual uptrend pattern that suggests a near to medium term move to the 32-34 level. Scott Paper (32) has been one of the strong issues in the paper group; it recently rallied to a new high. This advance suggests a near to medium term rally to the 36-38 level.		Institutional activity reached record levels recently. The increased demand by the larger traders has shown significant support for the current rally. Another bullish factor is the continued selling on balance by the odd-lotter. Among the stocks under significant accumulation last week which are regarded favorably on a technical basis are: 20th Century-Fox, Brunswick, Martin Marietta, Pan American World Airways, GAF Corp. Among the stocks under significant distribution last week which are regarded unfavorably are: G. D. Searle, Reynolds Metals.
Grain Market		CHICAGO (AP) — Soybeans futures came under selling pressure that sent prices down 2 cents a bushel on the Chicago Board of Trade Friday. Prices which had risen a measure of 10 cents in the previous week, fell to a low of 1.13 1/2. The decline was based on a fair price and all factors were noted on both sides. A generally improved weather situation, pending harvest of crops brought in. In some active selling on the opening, and soybeans quickly turned lower. The heading by commercial firms was particularly strong in the nearby rally. The weakness in soybeans was reflected in lower soybean meal and oil prices. Soybean meal fell 1/2 cent to 12.41 1/2. Oil for 25 points below the close. Some buying also came into the market, bringing prices to near previous levels. Prices moved within a tight 2 to 3 cent range, indicating a kind of wariness on the part of the trade to take a position either way. The corn harvest also is picking up momentum. Wheat trade was relatively dull but prices rallied near the close under active buying that brought in short cover. Cash and live prices were little changed. In slow local trade, while feed buyers are closed on a regular basis and dealers are busy with the trade.

MUSEUM RETURNS 'REMBRANDT' ART

The painting "Man in Armor," which owner Ralph Andrews thought was a Rembrandt when he loaned it to the Charles W. Bowers Memorial Museum at Santa Ana, will be returned to him Tuesday.

Art experts said the work was not even a good imitation of the style of the famed Dutch master and that oils used in its creation were not of the time of Rembrandt van Ryn.

Andrews, who had brought the painting to the museum under armed guard last Dec. 28, joined the experts in announcing that it was a forgery. He said he will return it to the art dealer who sold it to him.

Alamitos Air Squadron Back From Viet Duty

A Los Alamitos Naval Air Squadron is back from active duty and has a new designation.

Attack Squadron VA 776, activated after the Pueblo crisis and combat-ready at Leemore NAS, is now Attack Squadron 714. It was deactivated and ordered back to Los Alamitos three weeks ago.

Capt. Lloyd Ruth, Los Alamitos commander, told an informal welcome-home gathering Friday that "the Navy is proud of the squadron's work, and if it had deployed to the Western Pacific it would have made a fine name for itself."

Capt. Ruth added that the fliers will have some F-4 jets for training after the first of the year.

Cmdr. Milt Johnson, squadron commander, responded for the 186 enlisted men and 50 officers.

Parents Receive Son's Medal

Mr. and Mrs. Donald L. Waugh of 16600 Downey Ave., Paramount, have received a Navy Commendation Medal with Combat V, which was posthumously awarded to their son, Marine Cpl. Randal M. Waugh, killed July 5 in Vietnam while directing troops in a battle with enemy soldiers.

The award was made at the Compton Marine Corps Reserve Training Center.

Southern California women's apparel firm which wanted to use a full-rigged sailing ship as a prop.

"It was raining," Ed sighed, "and we used the Ellen, and it was just the devil's own work trying to get that canvas up. I still don't really believe we did it."

White has lived even more dangerously, although he wasn't aware of it at the time.

During the filming of "Skidoo" in Los Angeles Harbor earlier this year, a scene called for a small navy of hippies — led by Carol Channing — to descend on the yacht on which Jackie Gleason and other cast members were assembled. Ed was supposed to get the hippie fleet — canoes, rowboats, outboards, catamarans and other craft — in position for director Otto Preminger; then step aside.

"But once the fleet was in position, Ed said he realized they wouldn't stay that way long, and so I yelled to them to start coming in to the yacht and told Miss Channing to start singing."

"They kept coming in," Ed said, his eyes glowing. "It was just great. Everything was just as it was supposed to be."

AND THEN, Ed recalled, he became aware of the portly figure at his side. He glanced at Preminger, then returned his gaze to the approaching small craft.

"Mr. White," Preminger said, "you're directing my picture."

"Ed started to apologize but Preminger silenced him."

"It is going well," Ed recalled Preminger's words, "fortunately for you."

It may be that Ed White is the only man around who has usurped directorial duties from Preminger and emerged without a verbal beating.

Norwalk Worker Hurt In Fall, Dies

A Norwalk food plant worker died Friday of injuries suffered when he fell about 15 feet from the side of a processing hopper onto a concrete floor.

Antonio Flores, 45, of 14524 Claressa Ave., fell while feeding frozen carrots from a conveyor into the hopper with a stick at the Marshburn Farms plant, 13370 Firestone Blvd., about 3 p.m. Thursday, Orange County coroner's investigators reported.

Flores, who received head and other injuries, succumbed in St. Jude Hospital, Fullerton, Friday morning.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

RANUNCULUS
Prolific Bulb

Of all the interesting bulb flowers in the world, none can surpass the ranunculus and anemones in the number of blooms produced per bulb, or the length of the blooming period. A large jumbo bulb averages 35 to 50 blossoms.

Ranunculus and anemones help keep your sunny garden glowing with spectacular colors continuously from six to eight weeks, if you use the mixtures which contain usually seven separate colors, plus bi-colors, tritones, blends and in-between colors. (You can obtain ranunculus bulbs in separate colors too.)

There are two anemone mixtures, the De Cane which are the large single poppy type flowers; St. Brigid the double and semi-double peony form showy blossoms.

Ranunculus grow about 18 inches to 24 inches tall, gular rough portion of the bulbs should face up when they're being set in the ground. Soil must be thoroughly watered after planting. Keep the ground well moistened after the ly are the bright warm

DO IT NOW

• CONTINUE deep watering azaleas and rhododendrons. Continue disbudding thickly clustered camellia buds. Snap off all but two buds where many more existed.

• SPRAY underside foliage of hydrangeas and poinsettias if any spider mites are on them.

• SET OUT any shrubs or trees so they'll benefit from the winter rains.

• FEED pruned-back Martha Washington geraniums, azaleas, clivias, callas.

whereas the anemones grow to about 12 inches. Soil must be thoroughly watered a day or two before planting the bulbs. Soak the bulbs about an hour before planting them. The ranunculus points of the claws are planted downward.

Anemones usually are more difficult to figure out which way to plant them. Most of the irregular pattern shapes of the bulbs are smooth. The sin-bulbs grow out of the soil. Scatter an effective snail-slug bait to keep those pests from chewing off the tender foliage. You may also need to cover the bulb with hardware cloth or chicken wire till the new growth hardens.

Ranunculus and possibly the anemones may be purchased already started, several inches tall, the young growth already hardened to save having to protect them from birds and ready to set out in your garden.

The tall gladiolus-like Watsonias, the charming snowflakes (Leucojum vernum), the stately Star of Bethlehem (Ornithogalum arabicum), teasingly fragrant Freesias, and attractive Sparaxis are welcome additions in your sunny flower bed.

Snajagons and stocks planted in separate groups but adjoining each other furnish delightfully contrasting groups of blossoms as well as foliage color. The two types of flowers add an interesting array of various colors. The snapdragons predominant-

Planting Guide for October

• SET OUT shrubs and trees.

• PLANT perennials of arctotis, day lily, penstemon, shasta daisy, columbine, thalictrum, delphinium, English primrose, moorea, iris, canterbury bells.

• SET OUT bulbs of grape hyacinth, bulbous iris, freesia, daffodil, narcissus, tulip, Dutch hyacinth, sparaxis, ixia, leucocoryne, watsonia, montbretia, ornithogalum, leucorum.

• SOW seeds of fragrant alyssum, brachycome, Wall-flower, Chinese forget-me-not, small flowered forget-me-not, delphinium, dimorphotheca, California poppy (don't sow four o'clocks because roots grow huge carrot-shaped, almost impossible to dig out), gaillardia, gilia, gypsophila, lavender, sweet mignonette, nemesia, nemophila, nicotiana, pansy, viola, primula malacoides, Iceland poppy (giant type, too), scabiosa, shasta daisy, statice, thalictrum, Virginia stock, viscaria.

• PLANT bedding plants of stock, snapdragon, delphinium, Iceland poppy, pansy, viola, in sunny areas. Set out English primrose, primula malacoides (foxglove and cup and saucer canterbury bell in part shade), primula obconica, English daisy, cineraria, in shady sectors.

• SOW seeds of beet, carrot cabbage, celery, endive, lettuce, mustard, parsley, pea, spinach, Swiss chard, turnip.

colors, whereas the stocks furnish cooler leavening shades as well as spicily fragrant blossoms.

Let's not forget our lawns may need some attention, or possible drastic action, to improve them before too much cold weather sets in.

Grass lawns may be improved one of two ways. A seedy looking lawn should be mowed down low, edges of lawn and around sprinkler heads should be neatly trimmed, then thoroughly watered.

The deep moisture in the soil before lawn seeding, plus daily sprinklings after lawn is sown, encourages new roots to grow deeper down into the soil to develop a better lawn.

Gardener has two choices when selecting kind of grass seed to sow. Annual rye is a coarse-bladed lawn that dies out during summer heat. Fine-blade mixture of grasses lawn lasts much longer and is more than worth the extra cost.

DR. GEORGE PEEK and his wife Mabel reminisce over the well worn Bible which former Long Beach policeman brought to North Long Beach Brethren Church as pastor 20 years ago.

Congregation Salutes 20 Successful Years

There'll be a little anniversary celebration Sunday night following the 7 o'clock services at North Long Beach Brethren Church.

The congregation is tendering a reception (and a surprise gift) to Dr. George and Mrs. (Mabel) Peek, who came to the church at 61st and Orange twenty years ago.

The membership then totaled 235, with 250 in the Sunday School. Today, the church is one of the national fellowship's most successful, with a membership of 1,457, a Sunday School attendance around the 1,600 mark, and a strong youth program.

Dr. Peek was born in Albuquerque but brought to Southern California as an infant. His father was a Long Beach trunk manu-

BRIEFLY... Rich Fare, Theonetics, 'Lonely Sunday' Vespers

By LES RODNEY

Readers — kindly glance around these religious news pages today and note the rich variety of events planned for presentation in our area churches... the pictures and captions of guest speakers and artists, announcements in the "Goings On" column. These events run the gamut of Biblical study, testimony by unusual Americans, lively youth evangelism, Christian exploration of the nation's crisis, and gospel music excellence, with high caliber guests drawn to the area.

It is not a particularly untypical week. Last week offered an equally stimulating variety, with an ambitious (highly successful) church fiesta in collaboration with Mexican-American women of East Los Angeles thrown in (proceeds to East L.A.).

It's a fair statement that Long Beach is not only "a city of churches," but a center of vigorous and diverse church life. Remember, every one of these events requires hard work and planning by concerned and committed laymen and women. That is the big "secret," as any pastor will quickly agree.

faiths (and both sexes), the symposium hopes to provide technical and practical assistance for pastors, parents, teenagers and teachers on the problem of openness in family communication, and the "generation gap."

As usual, they bring in a formidable lineup of panelists. On hand will be Dr. William Morrison, head of the national United Presbyterian Board of Christian Education; Dr. Richard Farson, director, Western Behavioral Sciences Institute; Dr. Arthur Pearl, professor of education, University of Oregon, noted author and social critic; Dr. Edmund Carpenter, UC-Santa Cruz professor of anthropology, and former associate of Marshall McLuhan; Dr. Carleton Green, president, Urbanetics Inc.; Dr. Joseph Ross, professor of medicine at UCLA, past president of the World Health Organization; Dr. Edward V. Stein, professor at San Francisco Theological Seminary, and a panel of young people.

Reservations for the Friday night and Saturday event must be made at the Christian Education Office, 1501 Wilshire Blvd., Los Angeles.

She's leaving home After living alone For so many years.

—A Beadle Song

That rather poignant comment on the deteriorating quality of family life in this age of "progress" could serve as a theme song for the Theonetics symposium scheduled for the Edgewater Inn-Marina Hotel on Oct. 25 and 26.

Subject to be explored in depth this year is "The Family in Transition — The family is threatened by the inability of young and old to adjust to the impact of technology, affluence and permissiveness."

ANOTHER stimulating event to mark in your Long Beach "future" book will take place earlier that week, on Monday, Oct. 21. It is the third annual Interreligious Institute, scheduled for 3 to 9:30 p.m. at the Jewish Community Center.

This exceptionally ecumenical event is sponsored by the Long Beach Area Chapter of the National Conference of Christians and Jews, Cal State College, in cooperation with the Chamber of Commerce, Roman Catholic Church of Long Beach, the Board of Rabbis of the Harbor Area and the local Council of Churches.

Father Jerome Elder of St. Anthony's, chairman of the planning committee, tells us that the theme will be "Can the Church

SEEKS DIALOGUE

Dr. Joseph C. Hough Jr., dean of graduate studies and professor of Christian Education at the School of Theology, Claremont, and author of "Black Power and White Protestants," will speak on interpreting the Kerner Commission Report on Civil Disobedience Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. in First Congregational Church, Third Street and Cedar Avenue. The public is invited to attend and enter into dialogue with the speaker. Dr. Hough is also chairman of the graduate faculty of religion at Claremont Faculty School, and heads up COMMIT, an inner-city mission training center. A $1 registration fee will be charged. Dr. Hough will autograph copies of his book, which will be on sale.

Other forum participants will be Dr. Sterling W. Brown, president of the National Conference; Father Elwood Kaiser, producer of the TV series "Insight"; Rabbi Jacob Levine, past president, Board of Rabbis of Southern California, and Dr. Duane Day, new minister at First Congregational Church, and author.

Reservations are suggested by Oct. 14. Dinner is included in the $5 tab.

Incidentally, Lindaman is one of the moving forces behind the theonetics symposium idea. It will be a busy week for this dynamic layman.

A RECORD enrollment of 1,325 students is reported at Biola College in La Mirada, Christian college with a 60-year history in the Southland. Several hundred were turned away due to lack of room and failure to meet admission requirements.

Says president Dr. Samuel H. Sutherland: "It is most significant to see a continual increase of interest in a school such as Biola, in light of the liberal theological trends of our time." Biola is a community.

SINGS, TOO 'Little Albie' to Tell Rally of Life, Faith

Albie Pearson, who overcame the handicap of small stature to become the American League Rookie of the Year, and to lead the Los Angeles Angels in hitting in three seasons, will be the featured speaker at the monthly Dave Wilkerson Youth Rally starting 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Molydland Theater, across from Disneyland.

Pearson, who attributes much of his disciplined success to his faith, now spends all his spare time working with juvenile delinquents and young dope addicts.

As a switch from singing in the shower in the Angel clubhouse, he has made several records,

CONFIDENT LIVING Sick Mind Can Mean Sick Body

By NORMAN VINCENT PEALE

Find real health of mind and you will have gone a long way toward enjoying health of body also. As Dr. Paul Tournier, the well known Swiss doctor, points out, health depends to a large extent on mental attitudes and even upon the spiritual condition of the personality.

If this is true, and we have no reason to doubt the thesis, it follows that anything which contributes helpfully to the mental, emotional and spiritual well-being of the individual will be an important factor in health of mind and body.

You frequently hear people say, "I am sick with worry." That is much more than a mere expression designating intense anxiety. A person definitely can become sick from worry. One doctor has stated that 50 per cent of his patients have definite worry symptoms, and Dr. Smiley Blanton, the eminent psychiatrist, said, "Anxiety is the great modern plague."

RESENTMENT, hate and ill-will also have their place in the bad health picture. A physician said of a certain man who held a long-term hate that he actually "died of a grudge." He could not enter this officially as cause of death, but he described how the patient's color "sickened," his eyes lost lustre, organs functioned with increasing sluggishness and breath became extremely foul. "His whole being deteriorated and left his organs lacking in resistance and prey to disease."

"Yes," he insisted, "the man died of a virulent long-held hate."

That this is an extreme case is obvious, but thousands of dull, listless and lethargic people with aches and pains drag through life low in energy and vitality and all because of a diseased emotional and spiritual condition. And, of course, such condition undermines the body tone leaving it open to the encroachment of disease, although this is not to say that all sickness is emotionally induced. It must be remembered, however, that a distinguished Canadian physician did advance the theory that stress is an active agent in all disease.

Business School Grade Start High

STANFORD (UPI) — A graduate fresh out of Stanford University's graduate school of business last June with a master's degree picked up an average salary starting at $12,156 a year.

In my experience I have noted not a few personal situations where unhealthy mental and spiritual attitudes gave rise to emotional conditions that in turn had pronounced physical manifestations. For example, the woman who came up to me after I had preached a sermon with the blunt announcement, "I itch terribly. Whatever shall I do about it?"

"Well, madam," I replied, "I've had all kinds of reactions to my poor sermons, but this is the first time I can remember stimulating itching."

"I've had it off and on for about three years but it's particularly bad when I am in church. Look at my arm, see how it itches." The exposed arm showed nothing except maybe a slight redness. I was curious as to why the itching was particularly noticeable when she came to church. The only thing that emerged from our conversation came out strong, and that was hatred of her sister. I mean hatred, lark, vehement and virulent.

It seemed that her older sister, so she calmed, executor of her father's estate, had defrauded her of a considerable part of her rightful inheritance. I reasoned that since she was a long-time church member the hatred was compounded with a sense of guilt when she came to church and concluded that the itching must be a concomitant of the guilt-hate complex.

BECOMING curious about the case, I received permission to discuss it with her physician. He was obviously interested when I told him of her hate confession. "She never opened up on that with me," he said. "This woman maybe has what we might call an internal eczema. She has been scratching herself on the inside and producing an outward pseudo itching. I have a hunch that if she would drop the hatred she might get over it. At least it's worth trying."

The doctor talked with the patient along this line and sent her back to me with the stern warning, "You'll itch yourself into a breakdown if you don't straighten up your sick thought pattern."

She responded to the suggested therapy. She forgave her sister, not without effort, and gave up the hate. The guilt feeling let up, and, believe it or not, the itching lessened and finally ceased altogether. And apparently her changed attitude had a salutary effect on the grasping sister-executor, for she straightened out the financial situation to mutual satisfaction.

MELODY CHORUS

Pam Swan Bryan, musical prodigy who has been performing as violinist-vocalist on TV since she was 10, will appear Sunday, 7 p.m. with The Melody Chorus at Glad Tidings Assembly of God, 1900 South St. Former staff soloist for Youth for Christ, she was chosen Concert Mistress for all Southern California High School Symphony Orchestras in competition with 1,000 violinists, has scored four successes abroad. She is the daughter of Paul and Evelyn Swan.

Five Night, 5 Church Gospel Meeting Set

A five-night gospel meeting will begin Sunday night at North Long Beach Church of Christ, 1128 E. Artesia St. Five area churches of Christ will take part, with the five preachers exchanging pulpits each night. Theme will be "Is Faith Relevant to Our Times?"

Peter Merrick, minister of the host church, will have the topic, "Was Christ More Than a Good Man?"

Other churches participating will be Bellflower, 17054 Clark Ave.; Downey, 8321 E. Imperial Highway; Huntington Park, 3034 E. Gage Ave.; and South Gate, 9797 California Ave.

The five preachers will start in their home congregations on Sunday night, then begin alternating on Monday.

Speakers and their topics at the North Long Beach church following Mr. Merrick's Sunday night opener at 6:30 p.m. (other nights, 7:30):

Monday—Bill Watts, Huntington Park, "Is Faith in God Relevant to Our Time?"

Wednesday—Vance Carruth, Bellflower, "Is the Church Outdated?"

Thursday—J. T. McClung, South Gate, "Can Men Trust One Another?"

She responded to the suggested therapy. She forgave her sister, not without effort, and gave up the hate. The guilt feeling let up, and, believe it or not, the itching lessened and finally ceased altogether. And apparently her changed attitude had a salutary effect on the grasping sister-executor, for she straightened out the financial situation to mutual satisfaction.

Religious Science Minister Explains 'No Dogmas' Sect

Religious Science is basically a teaching church rather than a worshipping church, says Rev. Carl R. Ambrose, minister of Long Beach Church of Religious Science International, which has markedly increased in membership since his arrival a year and half ago.

Its main thrust, he said last week in an interview, is to "teach a technique of spiritual, scientific prayer, called treatment, based on the law of mind, which is as accurate as the law of mathematics when understood and used properly."

A metaphysical faith, it is similar to the larger Church of Christ, Scientist (Christian Scientists) in holding that the mind produces everything, that all the discord and ugliness in today's world are "the false appearance of wrong thinking," and that through correct thinking, all can be healed, whether wars, racial discord, or individual ailments.

THUS the training of "practitioners" to teach "the technique of scientific prayer."

Religious Science, however, differs from Christian Science in several ways, says the 35-year-old minister, a native of Virginia Beach, Va.

"We do not deny matter. We have no qualms about medical assistance. Our church handles things from a consciousness direction, and we let the doctors and morticians handle the body phase."

In their view of Jesus, Religious Scientists differ dramatically from other Christians. In fact, technically speaking, they are not Christians at all. No cross will be found in their churches. "We have no dogmas, no creed, no symbols," said Ambrose.

"We make a distinction between Jesus and The Christ," he amplified. "Jesus, the man, perfected the Christ idea, which is inherent in all people. Therefore, we do not defy Him. We have great respect for Him as one of the great prophets."

However, he asserts, "We probably believe in Christian principles more than many who proclaim the divinity of Jesus. We teach life eternal not on Easter, but 52 weeks of the year."

In the respectful but non-divine view of Jesus, the sect bears a resemblance to Unitarians. Neither, for example, would be eligible for membership in the National Council of Churches, whose preamble confesses Jesus Christ as Lord and Saviour.

BUT DESPITE for this surface parallel, Religious Scientists are actually poles apart from Unitarians, who are noted for active involvement with the world. Religious Scientists, says Ambrose, do not address themselves to such things as Vietnam, race, poverty and starving kids in Biafra.

"You see," he explains, "as far as Vietnam is concerned, we teach there is no death. We understand that one goes through a change called death, and there is no particular virtue in that change, but what you are now, you will continue to be. If someone is in Vietnam, we say that one is never in the wrong place, consciousness always takes you where you belong."

"If you don't like where you are, change your consciousness," he added with a smile.

These teachings, he said, bring "tremendous peace of mind."

As for heaven, hell and sin:

"Heaven and hell are states of consciousness, not a location one goes to when he goes through the change called death. We say there is no sin, that what is called sin is just a consequence. We call them mistakes. Therefore, we do not believe in punishment."

The Bible is studied, and there is a Sunday School.

"The Bible was written for learned people," the minister says. "The Old Testament especially was never intended to be studied by the man on the street. The Bible has deep inner meaning and great depth, when understood from the metaphysical point of view."

Rev. Ambrose's gains the sect, while not gaining greatly in membership at the present, "is not declining, but is stable."

"We believe many thousands more would be attracted if they were aware of what we teach," linking of Religious Science to spiritualism is one of the misconceptions, he points out.

AS FOR his views of the other Long Beach churches, Rev. Ambrose says "They are doing a wonderful job at the level they are. There are certainly millions to be reached. Each church is seeking. We don't battle with the other churches, we do not claim to be the only church, or the only gate to heaven. We are here to offer instructions. If we have what someone is seeking, we welcome them."

The Church of Religious Science International, he explains, split off from the Church of Religious Science in 1956 over questions of structure, but continues to follow the doctrines of the sect's California founder, Dr. Ernest Holmes. The new group is headquartered in Carmel. The local church meets Sunday at the Woman's City Club, 1309 E. Third St., and maintains week-day offices at 1826 E. Broadway.

FROM THE PULPIT

Is it possible that our generation has forgotten the tremendous value of the words "thank you?" The expression itself is without meaning unless backed up with right action. Paul instructed the Colossians, "Be ye thankful."

Perhaps the reason gratitude is not displayed between men is that it is lacking toward God. The Psalmist said, "Be ye thankful unto Him, and bless His name." How long has it been since you thanked God for all that you enjoy. You can back up your offer of thanksgiving by being in God's house this Sunday.

Come to Calvary. Calvary is for you!

Ex-Pro Gridder Is Noted Bible Scholar, Lecturer

Professional football star, Phi Beta Kappa, Fulbright and Rockefeller scholar, author, mission director and professor of religion — such is the unusual background of Dr. James Kallas Jr., who will present a series of six Biblical lectures at two area Lutheran churches starting Sunday.

The series begins this Sunday, 7 to 9 p.m., at Christ Lutheran Church, 6500 Stearns St., and will alternate with similar appearances at Holy Spirit Lutheran, 21225 S. Bloomfield Ave., Lakewood.

Kallas, who played football with the Chicago (now St. Louis) Cardinals, and Chicago Bears, is listed in "Who's Who in the West." And with good reason. In addition to his scholastic honors, he has been guest lecturer at major universities and seminaries across the land, and is cited in the written report of the Western Assn. of Schools and Colleges as a "brilliant lecturer — stimulating, exciting and well informed."

Currently associate pro-

fessor of religion at California Lutheran College, he has served as director of Protestant Mission Schools in French Cameroun, West Africa. Among his books, "The Significance of the Synoptic Miracles" was hailed by the Baptist Times of London: "Opens up horizons as yet insufficiently explored."

The lecture series is open to all, at a nominal fee of $2 per person for the entire series.

Torrance Fighting Freeway

Bitter Torrance residents, who may lose their homes if a proposed freeway running through the municipality is built, are expected to air their views at a State Division of Highways public hearing Thursday.

The Division of Highways meeting will be held at 10 a.m. in the Torrance High School Auditorium, site of the council meeting at which the route endorsement was made.

THE ROUTE, if approved by the state Highway Commission, will cut an "L"-shaped swath in a southeast to northwest direction through the city, starting at Vermont Avenue and ending at the San Diego Freeway.

Thursday's Division of Highways meeting will be held at 10 a.m. in the Torrance High School Auditorium, site of the council meeting at which the route endorsement was made.

In what was described by Mayor Albert Isen as the council's longest (7 p.m. Thursday to 1:10 a.m. Friday) meeting in history, nearly 1,000 city residents watched as councilmen voted 4-2 with the mayor abstaining to endorse the route. Isen said he abstained because he lives on a proposed route.

RECEPTION SUNDAY FOR L.B. STUDENTS

The American Field Service International Scholarships organization will host a reception Sunday for two returning Long Beach students, and six foreign students residing here, at the Covenant Presbyterian Church, 607 E. Third St.

Mrs. Kenneth Egan, assistant district representative for the unit, said about 250 persons are expected to attend the 2 p.m. event, which will feature her daughter, Patricia, 19, returning from Germany, and David Luipold, 19, who has been studying in Switzerland.

Students from Austria, Chile, Norway, Singapore, Thailand and the Portuguese West African colony of Angola also will be hosted at the reception.

Westinghouse Unit Gets DC-10 Order

Builders Can't Meet Courthouse Deadline

Contractors said Friday they can't finish the $14-million Orange County Courthouse by Nov. 2, and that Nov. 15 is a more realistic date.

On that basis, county departments which will occupy the new structure set up "moving days" on four successive weekends.

On Nov. 16 and 17, the marshals, the Central Orange County Municipal Court, the clerks, and the Veterans' Service Office personnel will move in. The following weekend, transfer of the offices of the district attorney, public defender and grand jury is scheduled.

The county clerk's office, which also acts as clerk for the Superior Court, will transfer Nov. 30 and Dec. 1, and on Dec. 14 and 15, the 21 Superior Courts, the court administrator and court reporters will make their moves.

Dedication of the 12-story building, located at the Flower Street side of the Civic Center, between Sixth and Eighth Streets will be next Jan. 10, according to present plans.

ACT III OF WORLD SERIES IN DETROIT

Washburn Duels Wilson Today

TODAY'S STARTERS

Ray Washburn, left, of St. Louis and Earl Wilson of Detroit will be the starting pitchers in the third World Series game today at Tiger Stadium.

Combined News Services

DETROIT — Ray Washburn vs. Earl Wilson.

It doesn't have the same ring as Bob Gibson vs. Denny McLain but their meeting is just as important.

The St. Louis Cardinals will send Washburn against Detroit's Wilson here today in the third game of the World Series which now is deadlocked 1-1.

The Gibson and McLain rematch will be served up

Composite Box on C-5

Sunday, but today's tie-breaking game could be the most important one of the World Series.

There was a break in the World Series action Friday, but an off-the-field development kept the fall classic a hot topic.

A touch of dissension flared up on the Tigers' side, although it was quickly stifled by a little player-manager communication.

Detroit manager Mayo Smith held a closed-door

20-minute meeting with left fielder Willie Horton which stemmed from a move the Tiger skipper made during the seventh inning of Thursday's game.

Horton, who had been playing left field and who had homered, singled and walked in four trips, naturally had to leave the game. He didn't like it. He particularly didn't like it because his wife and his 6-year-old son had made a special trip to St. Louis to see him play.

"Look, Mayo is a damn good manager and he's kept the team together, but when your family is in the stands it hurts. I've got feelings, too. Yes, I'm gonna talk to him," Horton had said before their meeting.

When Horton walked inside Smith's office Friday he lit a cigarette and sat casually in a chair facing the Detroit manager. The two of them talked and Smith told Horton he had not taken him out of Thursday's game for defensive purposes.

"I told him he can go just as far for a fly ball as Northrup," Smith recounted to newsmen later, "and the only reason I made the switch is because Northrup can throw better. That's all there was to it."

"I can understand. Being in the World Series for the first time and all that, naturally a fellow wants to be out there playing all he can."

Topcast weather and frost warnings greeted the aroused Tigers and still confident Cardinals here Friday.

Wilson, a power threat with 33 career homers to his credit, was 13-12 for the Tigers this season. Washburn had a 14-8 record.

On the strength of their rousing 8-1 shelling of Nelson Briles in the second game and the return to their home park, the Tigers are slight favorites — 11-10 — to win the third game. St. Louis, however, remains a 13-10 choice to take the Series.

"We're built for this park," said Smith while the Tigers worked out on the open date in the schedule. "We have to outthunder the other club to win. Psychologically it's a lift to us to come home."

In St. Louis the measurements are 330 feet down each line, 414 to dead center and 386 to left center and right center, the power slots. Tiger Stadium is 340 to left, 325 to right and 440 to center but only 365 to left center and 370 to right center. As the Tigers hit 185 homers to the Cards' 73 in regular season and slammed three to the Cards' one in St. Louis, anything that helps the power hitter has to aid Detroit. After two games the Tigers are batting .261, the Cards .197.

When the talk got around to the solid green of the seats and the hitting background, Cardinal catcher Tim McCarver said, "it reminds you of money."

Centerfielder Curt Flood took the same easy-going attitude about the stadium. "I kind of measure it a little bit. There's not much you can do. The only thing you can look for is where the sun is."

"Mostly, I work on my punt returns."

BRUNDAGE STANDS FIRM ON THREATS TO GAMES

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Avery Brundage, president of the International Olympic Committee, said Friday night he would stand on Thursday's official statement that the 19th Olympic Games will be held as scheduled Oct. 12 despite new threats against the Games.

Brundage, who earlier in the day expressed concern over the so-called "Army of Liberation's" statement against the Mexican government, released a terse statement saying:

"The president of the international Olympic Committee, Avery Brundage, states today that the position of the committee has been expressed in its recent release and that there is no change in the attitude as outlined in yesterday's communique."

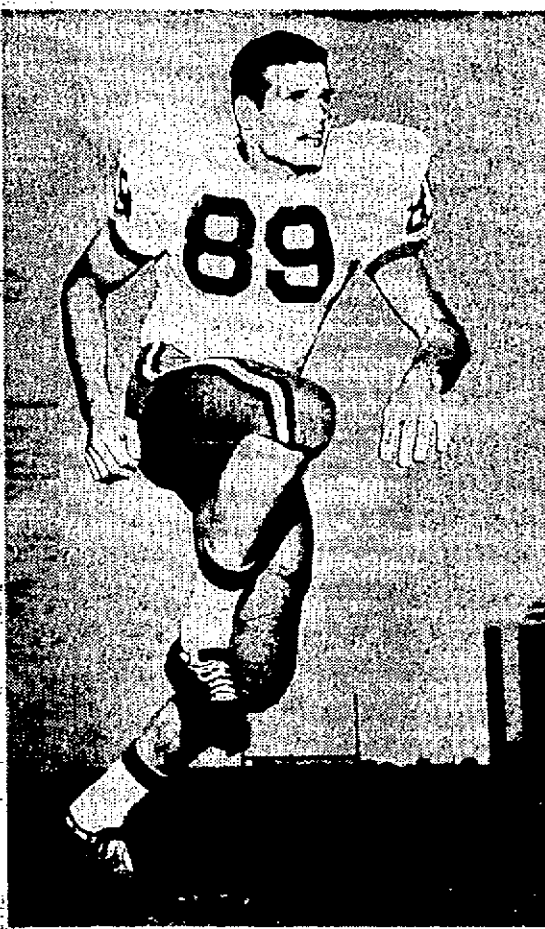

Meanwhile, the heads of two IOC satellite groups, the Permanent General Assembly of National Olympic Committees and the General Assembly of International Federations, released a vague statement which said they sought from Mexican authorities assurance of "Olympic atmosphere in every way."

The statement was signed by Giulio Onesti, of Italy, president of the newly formed Assembly of National Committees, and Australia's Burgess Phillips, president of the Assn. of International Sports Federations.

Their statement said in part: "We would not fulfill our duties as elected and responsible leaders if we should hide our preoccupation toward events which prejudice the Olympic reality, its spirit of love, its peace and fraternity."

"We ask, therefore, on behalf of militants of sports of our delegations and of the sports code that the authorities of the country that offer us its hospitality, should offer us at the same time the Olympic atmosphere in every way. This means the Games must be held in an atmosphere dominated by love and not by grief."

TED HENDRICKS... Sets Trap for O.J.

Troy Tabbed by 8 Points Over Miami

By LOEL SCHRADER
Staff Writer

USC's John McKay and Miami's Charlie Tate swear it's just another game.

Their claims have fallen on disbelieving ears all week.

Thus, the football clash between the Trojans and Hurricanes tonight at 8 in the Coliseum has taken on the proportions of a major intersectional battle.

McKay's desire for victory is prompted by the treatment the Trojans received two years ago in Miami.

"I've never seen a team so beaten up," McKay confessed on the plane returning the Trojans from a 10-7 loss to the Hurricanes.

The wreckage was permanent. The previously unbeaten and No. 5-ranked Trojans lost three of their next four games, including a surprise setback by UCLA and a 51-0 walloping from Notre Dame.

USC TICKETS ON SALE

USC announced Friday evening that 20,000 general admission tickets for tonight's Trojan-Miami game would go on sale this morning at 9 at the Coliseum ticket windows.

Miami's win over USC was the biggest of Tate's career. It sparked the Hurricanes to a final 7-2-1 mark and a berth in the Liberty Bowl.

Last year, they moved up to the Bluchonnet Bowl. A victory tonight would give immeasurable aid to Miami's intense desire to become recognized as a permanent college football power.

The Hurricanes currently are ranked 12th in the United Press International poll and 13th by the Associated Press. USC is second in both polls. The Trojans are favored tonight by eight points.

Two duels may decide the outcome of the game, which is expected to be witnessed by more than 65,000 fans.

One will be the ability of the Miami defense, headed by all-America end Ted Hendricks, to contain USC's O. J. Simpson, who has averaged 212.5 yards per carry in the Trojans' 29-20 win over Minnesota and 24-7 triumph over Northwestern.

USC's defense has a similar mission. It must halt the passing of Miami's David Oliver, who sparked the Hurricanes to their win over the Trojans two years ago and threw three touchdown passes in Miami's 28-7 opening victory over Northwestern.

In order to add quickness to his defense McKay has made two changes. As of Friday, Skip Robinson was scheduled to replace John Young at defensive halfback and Jim Grissum was supposed to take Bill Hayce's defense end spot in the starting lineup.

BRUIN CAUGHT IN A BEAR HUG

Wilson High halfback Dante Lobato (20) is caught by Jack Brewer (12) and Dave Oahilman (44) of Warren following second quarter reception from Jeff Burroughs that gained nine yards.

Bruins scored on a 35-yard pass from Burroughs to Mike Leininger on the next play and went on to post 35-7 win over previously undefeated Bears Friday night at Wilson.

Mighty Bruins Keep Getting Better, 35-7

By KEN PIVERNETZ
Staff Writer

After a slow start, Wilson High put together its best all around effort of the early season Friday night to overpower previously undefeated Warren 35-7 before a full house of 7,000 at Stephens Field.

It was again the passing of Jeff Burroughs and some hard running by Dante Lobato and Rex Hoover that provided most of the offensive fireworks. Almost as impressive was Owen Dixon's defense which limited Warren to only one first down after the half.

Burroughs threw touchdown passes of 35 and 23 yards to Mike Leininger and 23 yards to Dean Nosworthy while completing 11 of 18 for 155 yards.

The Bruins rolled up 376 yards rushing and passing to give them 1,083 yards in only three games and solidify their ranking as the CIF's No. 7 rated team.

The game's big break came near the end of the first quarter.

Warren had driven from its own 44 to the Wilson three in eight plays where on first down quarterback Dave Boulware fumbled and Mike Leininger, one of the few Bruins who goes both ways, recovered the ball.

That set the stage for a 13-play, 99-yard drive that got the Bruins on the scoreboard with 8:54 left in the half as Hoover dived over from the one.

Though Wilson was aided by a personal foul and pass interference call in the march, the big play was Burroughs' flip to Leininger for 24 yards that put the ball on the one to set up the TD.

Leininger, a standout all night, that caught the first of his two touchdown passes two minutes and 15 seconds later as Burroughs received great protection in hitting his 6-2, 175-pound end from 35 yards out.

It was a bang-bang, 58-yard march that took only four plays after the Bruins had held Warren following the kickoff.

Warren got on the scoreboard in the opening minutes of the third quarter that caught the Bruins napping.

On the first play following the kickoff, Marc

Springer, on a double reverse, rambled 46 yards to the Wilson 18.

On second down, Boulware hit Ken Jones for an apparent TD, but a personal foul put the ball back to the 33 where Boulware turned right around and combined with Dan Romero on a 28-yard gain to the five.

Boulware then went over from five yards out and Springer's kick narrowed the score to 14-7.

But this seemed to fire up the Bruins who came right back and drove 65 yards following the kickoff on some hard running by Burroughs, Hoover and Lobato. There were only two passes in the drive — Burroughs to Leininger for eight yards and again for 23 yards for the TD.

HAVE OLD ANSWER TO NEW PROBLEM Matadors Ready for 'Indefensible' 49ers

By JIM MCCORMACK
Staff Writer

Two years ago, a Cal State Long Beach football team that had won 10 of its last 11 games behind the passing of Jack Reilly traveled to Northridge High School to battle Valley State.

Applying the theory no quarterback can pass well lying on his back, the Matadors chased Reilly all over the field and their aggressiveness resulted in 14 points.

The terrified 49ers won the game on a fantastic

85-yard TD play by Phil Johnson, 24-20, but gained great respect for Valley State.

Cal State returns to Northridge High School tonight to open its 1968 California Collegiate Athletic Assn. schedule. KNAC-FM, 105.5, will carry the game beginning at 8 o'clock.

"They surprised us in that game," 49er coach Don Reed says. "They won't surprise us this time. We know it's coming. Our kids simply have to stop it."

Valley coach Sam Win-

ningham is applying his 1968 theory to another problem—the 49ers' super end, Billy Parks.

"I think indefensible is the word I want," Winningham says in describing Parks. "He's always going to make his 10 or 12 catches a game."

Although he didn't include it, there is an obvious "unless." Unless the quarterback doesn't have time to throw to him.

For this game, the most interesting matchup would be Parks against Valley defensive halfback Bill Fisher.

"We never double-team anyone," Valley publicist Joe Butitta said Friday. "All we want to do is keep Parks from catching the bomb."

The Cal State offensive line of Dave Pike, Bob Heckman, Bob Jones, Les Congelliere, Mike Frye and Austin Linsley have their work cut out in protecting quarterback Jerry Miller.

"We just have to get outside their rush," Reed explains. "If we can get away from their pressure, we'll be able to move the ball."

Although Valley lost its first game to Whittier, 13-7, the Matadors also displayed an ability to move the ball.

Reserve fullback Randy Coates, who played freshman ball at Cal State, transferred to Compton College and then to Valley, is the Matadors' leading rusher.

Coates handled the ball 30 times against Whittier for 120 net yards. Halfback Billy Ince followed with 94 yards in 21 tries.

Valley quarterback Steve Hartman completed

12 of 17 passes against Whittier, giving the Matadors a well balanced attack to challenge the 49ers.
